Peace Feeler Move Urged By Mansfield

Asks State Department For Diplomatic Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield prodded the State Department today to put out diplomatic feelers for an Asian peace conference on Viet Nam.

Acting entirely on his own, Mansfield offered what he called a new approach to possible negotiations.

Mansfield, sometimes critical of administration policy on Viet Nam, told a reporter he had not discussed his proposal with any administration sources.

He proposed in the Senate yesterday that Hanoi, Peking and "such elements in South Viet Nam as may be essential to the making and keeping of a peaceful settlement" be invited to meet in Burma or Japan.

Asked in a subsequent interview what hope there is for such a conference, in view of North Viet Nam's rejection of previous peace feelers, he replied:

"It's up to the diplomats to see if they can't arrange such a meeting. I would hope that our State Department representatives would consult with Burmese and Japanese officials and suggest such action."

Mansfield said he does not believe that avenue has been explored sufficiently.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told the National Democratic Women's Campaign Conference last night that President Johnson "spends many hours a day in relentless pursuit of peace."

"A powerful nation can always talk peace," Humphrey said. "This is what we're after." He said U.S. forces "are not in Viet Nam because of geography, or because who is in charge of a government. We are there to prevent the success of aggression."

In Greensboro, N.C., Sen. Wayne Morse predicted a further expansion of the war "so as to justify a total take-over of the government of South Viet Nam by the hundreds of officials there coaching South Viet Nam on how to run its affairs."

The Oregon Democrat, a persistent critic of the administration's Asian policies said Johnson should have pressed efforts to bring the Viet Nam issue before the United Nations.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said in a Look magazine interview that the Viet Nam struggle would have long since been settled "if we had never stuck our nose in this business."

Fulbright was quoted as saying: "I just cannot bring myself to believe that how the Vietnamese work out their internal problems is worth a major war or even gives us the right to intervene."

Mansfield's proposals for increased diplomatic feelers drew praise from Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio. But it was evident that few in Congress believe any such solution to the war is in the offing.

Navy Jets Hit Power Plant Near Haiphong

SAIGON (UPI) —Two U.S. Navy jets struck into North Viet Nam's industrial heartland blasting the vital Uong Bi plant which furnishes about 30 per cent of the power for the Hanoi-Haiphong area, a military spokesman said today.

The jets from the USS Kitty Hawk encountered only light antiaircraft fire as they screamed in low in the dead of night to within 14 miles of the port at Haiphong—as close as any American attackers have gone.

It was the fourth raid against the power plant in four months. The pilots hit it just about every time the Communists get it working again.

Other Navy planes from the Kitty Hawk and the USS Ticonderoga hit military and communications targets in North Viet Nam near Vinh, Dien Bien Phu, Dong Hoi and several other Communist cities. One A1 Skyraider was shot down by automatic weapons fire near Tiger Island just off the North Vietnamese coast but the pilot was rescued.

The intruders slashed in low over the power plant just before midnight yesterday and then performed a "pop up," an abrupt climb to release their bombs. Pilots said the plant immediately went dark and the sky was filled with "showers of sparks."

Two huge secondary explosions were observed, indicating severe damage to the facility. Military intelligence sources said the plant had supplied about 15 per cent of the nation's entire electrical output, about 33 per cent of Haiphong's and about 25 per cent of Hanoi's.

Golf Course Hearing Scheduled For May 3

Marin County Supervisors today set a public hearing for 1:30 p.m., May 3, to discuss proposed acquisition of the San Geronimo Valley Golf Course.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen yesterday said the county could acquire title and assure operation of the facility as a public course at no cost. It would require creation of a nonprofit corporation which would sell tax-free bonds to be retired through proceeds from operation of the course.

Job Corps Application Stalled; Board Jolted

County Aide Argues Pay Scale Too Low

Marin County supervisors yesterday were jolted by the discovery that Walter Bremond, the county's director of community relations, had been holding a Neighborhood Job Corps application in his desk because he thought $1.25 per hour was too little to pay high school dropouts.

"It's just not realistic to talk about $1.25 an hour," Bremond told the board.

Supervisors made it pretty clear this was up to them to decide.

The application for $22,500 in federal funds, to provide 30 high school dropouts with three months of work refurbishing the old Navy Net Depot at Tiburon, was returned to the county for minor corrections two and one-half months ago, reported County Administrator Alan Bruce.

SHORT TIME

"We're dealing with the hard core of Marin City," Bremond said. "They can make more money gambling or just standing on the street corner waiting for 'Mother's Day,'—that's the welfare check."

Bremond was backed by James Quiett, chairman of the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

"I want to be quite critical of withholding this because someone thought the salary was too low," Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said. "I'm sure there are people in Marin County who would have taken those jobs."

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said the program could have provided summer jobs for those still in high school, but Bremond said it was specifically for dropouts.

MORE MONEY

He also said the short time, just three months, would not give much training.

"This should have come to the board as a policy matter," Board Chairman Byron W. Leydecker said.

It was Supervisor Thomas T. Storer who asked what had become of the application. Bruce said he learned Friday that the new director of the technology center is interested.

Supervisors Reject Jobs Department

The Marin County Board of Supervisors balked yesterday at a proposal to set up a new county department to seek jobs for minorities and do community relations work.

The board agreed, however, on a series of actions designed primarily to help the people of predominantly Negro Marin City. It agreed to:

1. Cut the County Human Rights Commission from 22 to nine members but give it a secretarial staff.

2. Take the community relations service out of the department of social services (welfare).

3. Give Marjorie Ward, hired to implement the nondiscrimination clause in the Hall of Justice Contract, more help, and perhaps transfer her from social services to the personnel department.

4. Request a $55,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity for expansion of the apprenticeship training program.

The board also approved a two-year lease for a portable building as a temporary Marin City recreation center—a lease already signed by County Administrator Alan Bruce. The building was being erected while the supervisors discussed it. (See photo page 19.)

It dropped the idea of setting up a "junior McCone" commission to investigate the Marin City situation. Bruce said he had started an inquiry into how the McCone commission was set up to investigate the Watts riots, at suggestion of "individual members of the board."

"I think we ought to defer that indefinitely," said Supervis-

Two New Planners Selected

Marin County supervisors today appointed architect Claude Stoller and civil engineer Michael Praszker, both of Mill Valley, to the Marin County Planning Commission.

They will fill vacancies left by the resignations of Feliz M. Warburg in January and of Harry H. Heifetz this month.

Praszker, of 116 Evergreen Avenue, is a consulting civil enginner, specializing in soils and hydrology. He is with the firm of Lee and Praszker.

He is a graduate of University of London and University of California at Berkeley.

Stoller, of 7 Circle Avenue, who served three and one-half years on the Mill Valley Planning Commission, is a graduate of Harvard and with the firm of Marquis and Stoller in San Francisco.

He is acting head of the Department of Architecture at University of California at Berkeley.

The supervisors' selection was made today in a public meeting but with secret, written ballot after names of 11 who had applied for the commission vacancies had been written on a blackboard.

Clerk Muriel Carlson designated Praszker and Stoller as the two receiving at least three votes. The method of selection was suggested by Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen.

Other names on the board were Ralph B. Priestley, William L. Kapranos, William J. Keener, Frank W. Aitken Jr., Gilbert Murphy, David S. Edwards, Richard J. Oesterman, Edward Wachsman, and Michael Franzblau.

Yosemite Roads May Soon Be Snow-Free

YOSEMITE (UPI)—The road to Glacier Point overlooking Yosemite Valley will be opened to the public April 23, barring late season snowstorms, Yosemite National Park Superintendent John M. Davis announced today.

Davis also said the Tioga Road across the crest of the Sierra Nevada is tentatively scheduled for opening May 28.

CLOSED MEETING BRINGS CHALLENGE

Mill Valley School Board Accused Of Violating Brown Act To Fill Post

The husband of one of four candidates to fill a vacancy on the Mill Valley School District Board today asked the district attorney's office to file criminal complaints against the board members for allegedly filling the post during an illegal closed meeting.

Carl Hepp of 15 Elm Avenue, Mill Valley, asked the misdemeanor complaints under the Ralph M. Brown Act. Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas took Hepp's request, and material substantiating it, under study.

Hepp's wife was one of those nominated to fill a vacancy on the school board left by resignation of John G. Donhoff. The board at its regular meeting last night named Joseph Bodovitz to the vacancy.

But, contended Hepp, the choice was actually made at a closed meeting of the board at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Hepp said the appointment discusison last night was "very brief and only one person (Bodovitz) was discussed and therefore we can only presume that the other three had been discussed at the secret meeting.

"It is my understanding," he added, "that when the clerk asked if the board should be polled, the acting chairman said this wouldn't be necessary—meaning, we presume, he knew that such a vote had already been taken."

Hepp added, "Then a voice vote was taken, which was for the purpose of legalizing the action taken Saturday morning."

He declared the Brown Act's exceptions to an open meeting —for hiring or firing of employees or for hearing charges against them—does not include appointing of a board member since that is a public office and the member is not an employee.

"As a matter of fact," he added, I believe there have been several other such closed meetings." He cited a March 7 board session for consideration of salaries as one.

"Also," he said, "there is another angle. I believe the Educational Code requires a 48-hour notice of closed meetings, and even if the Saturday morning meeting were for a legal purpose, adequate notice was not given. I believe this also has been violated often in the past."

Hepp said he will seek to have

Vaughn-Heien Draws Another Term In Prison

Donald Vaughn drew another prison term today.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court sentenced Donald Heien to six months to five years for his May 4, 1964, escape from San Quentin Prison.

Heien had been living in Newton Center, Mass., as Donald Vaughn since shortly after his escape. He had married and had twin children. His past as Heien was disclosed with his arrest on Feb. 3 by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He already had been returned to San Quentin to serve out the remainder of his term for murder in Los Angeles County, where he killed a service station attendant on March 12, 1956.

Judge Haley ruled that the escape term should run concurrently with that for the murder.

Trustees Pick Bodovitz To Fill Vacancy

Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, was named last night to fill the unexpired vacancy of trustee John G. Donohoff of the Mill Valley School District board. He was one of four candidates.

He is to serve through June 30, 1967, and will be sworn in at the board's next meeting, May 9. Donhoff resigned on being transferred in his business to Pasadena.

Bodovitz lives at 10 Hollyhock Court with his wife, Shirley, and two children. Prior to taking his current job, he wrote education news for the San Francisco Examiner.

He was graduated from Northwestern University and holds a master's degree in Journalism from Columbia University. He has been serving on a citizens committee seeking a district educational consultant.

Trustee William P. Everts Jr. nominated Bodovitz and trustee William L. Clark seconded the motion. The vote was 3-0, trustee Joyce Gross being absent due to illness.

Supt. G. R. McConnell reported there were three letters and one telephone call supporting Mrs. Carl Hepp as candidate. Other persons being considered were Mrs. John Goerke and Gerald Weisbach.

Space Base Picketing Plea Ignored

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Striking electricians continued to picket all five gates to this space center today, despite government pleas that they restrict picketing to one entrance.

The Air Force and National Aeronautics and Space Administration had hoped the 52 members of the International Union of Electrical Workers (AFL-CIO) would limit their activity to a single gate so that construction workers could return to their jobs.

But officials said it appeared

Dumping In Bay Only Solution

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A 10-month study to find out what can be done with San Francisco's garbage has concluded that there is no alternative to dumping it in San Francisco Bay.

But the study, by a San Mateo research firm, recommended that a huge $9 million incinerator be built to reduce the size of the daily 1,500 tons of refuse from the city. It said, however, this could not be done for three-and-one-half years.

In the meantime, the report said, there is no alternative to dumping the garbage in the bay.

Jackie Asks Reduction In Expenses Allowance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has asked that her official expense allowance be cut from $50,000 to around $30,000 per year.

Congress granted the allowance after President Kennedy's death to permit the widow to employ clerical help to assist in answering thousands of letters.

Mrs. Kennedy's request for the cut was made in a letter to her brother-in-law, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who relayed it to a House Appropriations Subcommittee headed by Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass.

In her "Dear Edward" letter signed by "Jackie,' Mrs. Kennedy said "there has been a slackening" in the volume of official mail and other business "and I now feel that an appropriate adjustment in the funds the government provides for staff and facilities would be made."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Sophia's Marriage Disclosed

PARIS (AP)—Film star Sophia Loren and producer Carlo Ponti were married April 9 in the Paris suburb of Sevres. The civil wedding was disclosed by Mayor Charles Odic of Sevres and confirmed in London by Miss Loren.

Sophia

Ponti, 51, and Miss Loren, 30, were first married in 1957 by proxy in Mexico, but their marriage was not recognized in their native Italy. Ponti had been married previously and there is no divorce in Italy.

The proxy marriage led to bigamy charges against the star and the producer and after eight years of legal formalities their trial opened in Rome last July. Neither appeared in court but their testimony from a pretrial investigation was read and the proceedings were adjourned.

Ponti

Last year, both Ponti and his first wife, Giuliana Fiastri, became French citizens. Presumably they obtained a divorce in France before this month's marriage.

Causeway Blockaded

JOHORE BAHRU, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysia Home Minister Ismail Bin Abdul Rahman announced today that he is restricting travel into Malaysia across the Singapore Causeway because of the threat of Indonesian subversion via Singapore. Ismail cited the Indonesian government's recent announcement that it is planning to recognize Singapore and at the same time step up its undeclared war against Malaysia.

Tax Move Likely

Russ Trawler Spied In Spain, Pentagon Says

Contradicts Statement By Rear Admiral

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department contradicted an American naval commander today and said an electronically equipped Soviet trawler kept watch for two weeks during U.S. efforts to recover a missing hydrogen bomb off Spain.

In response to questions, the Pentagon said the trawler remained in the sea search area near Palomares Beach, Spain, until March 2, about two weeks before recovery of the American bomb.

SEARCH AREA

This disclosure contradicted a statement made by the commander of the naval task force a few hours after the weapon was retrieved April 7.

"I can say categorically," Rear Adm. William S. Guest told reporters at a news conference in Sapain, "that there has been no Soviet trawler or other ship in the search area at any time since we began our work."

There was no immediate comment from the admiral on the Pentagon's disclosure. Nor was there an explanation as to why he had declared the Soviet trawler was not in the area.

RED VESSEL

The Pentagon said the Communist vessel, kept under constant surveillance, once approached within three miles of the Mediterranean recovery zone. Usually, however, it kept a distance of 10 to 13 miles.

The trawler, whose name was withheld, usually scouts the Mediterranean area, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Klan Wins Rights To Crosses

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan has won the legal right to hold cross-burning rallies in the land of its bitter enemies—the Lumbee Indians of southeastern North Carolina.

The rally won't be held in the immediate future, however.

J. Robert Jones of Granite Quarry, grand dragon of the North Carolina Klan, applauded a judge's ruling yesterday upholding the Klan's right to stage the rally. But he said rally dates are filled for coming weeks.

"If we go into Robeson County, it couldn't possibly be before late summer," Jones said.

Leaders of the Indians who routed Klansmen with warwhoops and gunfire at a 1958 rally reiterated that more trouble can be expected any time the Klan meets near Lumbee communities.

State officials still hope the issue may be settled in the courts.

Yesterday, the state lost a bid to make permanent a temporary injunction blocking Klan rallies in Robeson County. But the case will be tried on its merits at a date yet to be set.

Boeing, Machinists Reach Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The International Assn. of Machinists reached agreement early today on seniority issues, averting a strike by 50,000 workers at vital U.S. space centers.

The settlement was announced by William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. It came after nearly 16 hours of continuous negotiations.

A conciliation spokesman said the agreement is subject to ratification by union members at meetings scheduled for April 27 in major Boeing facilities, including Cape Kennedy.

The agreement will give the union some of the seniority rights it sought but leave the company enough flexibility to control its work force through selective layoffs, the spokesman said.

Details of the settlement were not immediately available.

The seniority issues were left over for future solution after the company and union reached agreement last October on a new three-year contract. The agreement followed a 19-day strike.

Thousands Of Strikers Are Returning To Mines

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The number of striking soft coal miners was down to about 35,000 today.

The biggest concentration of strikers is in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia where about 25,000 remain out despite pleas from both the United Mine Workers Union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. to return to work.

Nearly 22,000 strikers returned to work yesterday in Kentucky, Illinois, Virginia, Colorado and Pennsylvania. In addition to Pennsylvania and West Virginia, strikers remain out in Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois and Alabama.

The strike, which started April 11 and spread to eight states, idled about 60,000 men at one point and was the largest strike in the soft coal fields in 15 years.

United Nations Puts Pope's Gift On View

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — An oil painting presented to the United Nations by Pope Paul VI on his visit here last October was hung in the lobby of the secretariat building yesterday near the Chagall stained glass window memorial to Dag Hammarskjold.

The painting, which measures 18 by 24 inches, is "Christ Crucified" by the French artist, Georges Roualt. It represents a rare instance of religious art being exhibited at U.N. headquarters but a spokesman said the Pope's gifts were "without precedent and created no precedent."

'Outside Interests' Are Ripped

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Lt. Governor Glenn Anderson has accused "outside interests" of attempting to unseat him in the upcoming election.

Anderson yesterday told a Greater Los Angeles Press Club luncheon that "It is a fact that I cannot match this outside backing, but it is a more important fact that I wouldn't if I could."

The incumbent lieutenant governor is being opposed by Lloyd Hand, former U.S. chief of protocol and the State Board of Education president Thomas Braden, both democrats, and Robert Finch, the GOP frontrunner.

Anderson came under criticism from Braden for "refusing to engage in any primary debate." Braden's remark came after Anderson spoke.

The transmission and linkage were stolen from a car owned by Leslie S. Whitson, 22 Driftwood Drive, Novato, while the car was in his garage Sunday night, he told police yesterday.

More Car Safety Rules Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is considering a broad new set of safety requirements for motor vehicles it buys, including relocation of the gear shift lever or its redesign as a dial or buttons.

The General Services Administration, in disclosing this yesterday, said no decision has been made on the 67 safety standards now being studied.

Last year, the agency adopted 17 safety requirements for 1967 models. Its standards apply only to government motor vehicle purchases, but the automobile industry had announced it is including some of them in future models sold the public.

Ford Motor Co. disclosed in Detroit its dealers are asking approximately 30,000 owners of 1966 model Ford and Mercury passenger cars to return them for inspection of a brake line.

"Company personnel discovered, while unloading some vehicles from rail carriers on which the cars had been spring-loaded, that a few of them had a damaged brake line due to severe bouncing," the Ford announcement said.

"No reports of the failure of the brakes in any units have been received from customers," the company said.

Lurie Losing $300,000 In Collapse Of Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Louis Lurie, millionaire financier and land owner, estimated yesterday he will lose $300,000 because the San Francisco National Bank collapsed.

The Damon Runyon Cancer Fund had $150,000 deposited in the bank and Lurie said he would pay that himself. About $10,000 of the charity's money is insured, he added.

Lurie, many times a millionaire, said the rest of his loss was in bank stock and a cash deposit of $60,000.

His loss became public when a disposition made by attorney J. W. (Jake) Ehrlich was filed in federal court. Ehrlich, once a bank director, made the disposition in a suit brought by depositors.

Don C. Silverthorne, once the bank's president, has been convicted of bank fraud.

Assessor Bribe Trial Takes Brief Recess

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The bribery trial of Assessor Russell Wolden of San Francisco was in recess today as the defense prepared to begin its arguments.

It was expected that the defense's presentation, starting tomorrow, following 38 trial days of arguments by the prosecution, might last only 10 days. The assessor is charged with accepting bribes in return for reduced assessments.

WEST MARIN SPLIT ON DENSITY ISSUE

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Residential density was again the major point of debate in the West Marin master plan last night when the plan came up for the first hearing before Marin County supervisors.

Judging applause from the crowd in West Marin School, the density issue has pretty evenly split the residents of West Marin. Most of those who spoke, however, were in favor of a density higher than recommended by the planning commission.

Consultants Mr. and Mrs. Harold Summers and Daniel P. Coleman recommended a density of .62 of a home per acre for a total ultimate population for the planning area of 66,335 souls.

The planning commission increased the proposed density to .8 of a home per acre, providing for an ultimate population of 86,500. Commissioners also said a 25 per cent bonus should be allowed "good developments." If all developments were "good," the ultimate population could conceivably go to about 110,000, according to Rowland Darnell of the county planning staff.

Supervisors last night took no action other than to close the hearing. Board Chairman Byron W. Leydecker said the hearing would be re-opened after the planning completes further study.

Supervisors Peter H. Behr and Ernest N. Kettenhofen were again at odds on the density issue.

Kettenhofen argued that the plan was based on some "fallacies and false assumptions" because conditions have changed since the consultants started work.

If sewers rather than septic tanks are required, a new plan will have to be drawn, Kettensofen said. He also said, judging from his experience as a Tahoe developer, it would be a mistake to seek the tourist trade. The emphasis should be on second home development.

Behr said density always goes up as an area develops and argued for a low density as a starting point in the master plan.

The planning commission recommendation calls for quarter-acre home sites in communities already developed and in parts of the Olema Valley, one-acre sites on slopes up to 25 per cent, and two-acre sites on steeper slopes.

The Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce and the Marin Property Owners asked half-acre site for lands up to 25 per cent slope and one acre on steeper slopes.

Attorney Bryan R. McCarthy, representing property owners he did not name, charged the plan would impose "density discrimination." He asked why owners in West Marin could not be allowed density given other areas of the county. He pointed to the Tiburon peninsula, where he said the topography was much the same.

"What you're saying is that you in West Marin are going to keep an open area, pay your taxes, keep it green for the tourists . . ."

Corwin Mocine, of the Inverness Improvement Assn., which generally endorses the plan, argued against McCarthy, saying it would be a mistake to reclassify everything to match the most intensive level of development in the county.

H. Morgan Noble of San Francisco and Inverness said development of two-acre sites as proposed in the plan would put lot prices at $17,000 and prevent any development at all.

Coleman said the plan envisions clustering of houses. A rancher, for instance, could put all the homes the density formula would allow on his land in one corner of the property, and go on ranching on the remaining open space.

The board did not get into discussion of a letter from County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost.

Frost wrote that the southern end of Tomales Bay, where apartments and commercial areas are planned, lies "within the rift zone of the San Andreas fault."

"It would be desirable to use these areas for golf courses, airports or other uses not contemplating continuous habitation," he wrote.

West Marin's Justice Court Gets Reprieve

Marin County supervisors last night, responding to the urgings of a standing room only crowd at West Marin School, voted unanimously to retain the West Marin justice court and the judicial district it serves.

The action rejected the 1965 grand jury's special report which said merger of the Northwestern Judicial District with the central municipal court could save taxpayers $7,000.

Residents of West Marin, numbering about 200, were strongly opposed.

Judge David R. Baty of the West Marin court, in a letter questioned the grand jury's figures on savings and declared it would be necessary to add another department to the municipal court if the districts were consolidated.

Just prior to last night's meeting, supervisors received a report from the California Judicial Council which recommended the consolidation be made when the next vacancy occurred either on the judical or the municipal bench.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr was in favor of following this recommendation in part by tabling the jury's recommendation until such a vacancy arose.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer moved that the court be continued without any limitation specified. This passed by a voice vote with no dissenter.

Fewer Soldiers Ask Viet Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Army soldiers volunteering for service in Viet Nam has dropped sharply and steadily since December, it was disclosed today.

The main reason, an Army spokesman said, is that a soldier now has a pretty good chance of getting into the war whether or not he volunteers to go.

Statistics made available on request showed that the monthly total of Army men asking to go to Viet Nam reached a peak of 4,492 in December.

This fell to 2,568 in January, to 2,280 in February and 1,710 last month.

The Army said 26,342 soldiers had volunteered for Viet Nam in the past 12 months.

Tiburon Downtown Plan Hearing Set

The Tiburon Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the downtown plan May 16 at 8 p.m. in Del Mar School, chairman Stephen H. Nash announced today.

The commission decided last night to hold one more study session on the plan April 25 before holding the public hearing. The plan by Callister and Payne, planning consultants, sets development guides for the downtown area, including the waterfront.

Copies of the plan and map will be ready for public inspection within a few weeks, Nash said.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

1. Returned without prejudice to Heath Land Co. development plans for the 41-acre El Marinero subdivision near Rolling Hills. The commission wanted to know the amount of cut and fill and the location of fire trails, and thought the number of lots should be scaled down from 65.
2. Approved a tentative map of Philippe Mutrux to subdivide 1.67 acres on Centro West into eight lots.
3. Denied a subdivision request by Edward Goliti Jr. for property on Tiburon Boulevard adjacent to Pine Terrace subdivision until he revises street alignment.
4. Sent back to the city council for instructions an application by Terrill Hill of San Francisco for a permit for a 49-unit development on Red Hill. The city council had returned the matter to the planning commission April 11 so the commission could put the entire development before the council as one unit.

Camp Counselor Interviews Set

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Longenecker, directors of the Bar-41 Youth Ranch near Seattle, Wash., will be at the Young Men's Christian Assn., 1009 Irwin Street, San Rafael, Friday at 8 p.m. to interview potential youth counselors and workers for the ranch this summer.

Joanne Tikker of the San Rafael YMCA will direct a "camp-on wheels" tour to the ranch Aug. 4 through 23, for Marin youth from 12 through 15 years of age.

Cigarettes Stolen

John L. Craig reported to Novato police that someone forced open a rear sliding glass door of his home at 44 Washington Street Saturday and stole two packages of cigarettes from the kitchen.

ROOSTER GONE MILL VALLEY SLEEPS AGAIN

The singing rooster of Rose Avenue in Mill Valley has gone to the happy rooster grounds.

In January, neighbors on Hazel Avenue complained about a rooster on Rose Avenue that sat in the trees and broke the morning silence at 4 a.m.

Yesterday police received a call from a neighbor who said the crowing was keeping her sick son awake.

At 5:46 p.m. yesterday, Officer Jerry Harman logged in the police blotter: "Responded to Rose Avenue and dispatched the noisy rooster to the place where all noisy roosters should be sent."

Novato Councilmen Will Elect Mayor

Novato City Council will continue consideration of costs of the Diablo Avenue street project and discuss development of Lions Club Park at Stafford Lake at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Community House.

Jo Jacobs Named President On Novato Community Club

Jacobs, who has directed, produced, written and worked on technical phases of club play and revue productions last year, was named outstanding member of the year. He replaces John Geser as president.

Club members voted to give $200 to Novato High School drama students to help pay for their trip to Pasadena next week, where they will participate in a high school drama festival at the Pasadena Playhouse.

Other officers elected last night were Marilyn Casady, vice president; Ellen Keeler, historian; Art Bliss, treasurer, and Paul Terry, secretary.

Officers will be installed at a dinner Saturday at the Lodge, Novato, when awards to members for contributions to the club will be given.

Belvedere Council

The Belvedere City Council will seat incumbents John R. Moore and Mrs. Sally G. Mathews after it canvasses the municipal election votes tonight at 8 o'clock in Community Hall. It will also elect a mayor and mayor pro-tempore.

Tam Trustees Given Updating On English

Tamalpais Union High School District board conducted business for only 45 minutes last night, then spent more than two hours listening to a report by district teachers on new developments in the teaching of English.

A panel chaired by district English supervisor Albert Lavin told trustees that emphasis in education is swinging from science and mathematics back to English and that, in turn, a new English is developing which steers clear of the traditional grammar and concentrates more on semantics and linguistics.

Trustees also hired 10 new teachers, but nobody in the district office could or would say today what any of them will be paid.

Efforts to learn the salaries were answered with a statement that district policy is to hire teachers at a salary "to be determined by proper placement on the salary schedule." The schedule ranges from $5,950 to $12,150 per year, but increases for next year have not yet been set.

Hired were:

Jola Anderson, 28, a substitute in the district this year, to teach physical education at Tamalpais High School; Stanley Pease, 35, of Hayward, to teach social studies at Tamalpais; Janis Renault, 37, of Los Angeles, to teach physical education at Tamalpais; Ruth D. Nugent, 24 ,of Marin City, to teach in the learning laboratory at Tamalpais.

Donald F. Brown, 27, now at a secondary school in Nigeria, to teach reading and study skills at Redwood High School; Else-Britt Jonsson, 22, a first year teacher from Santa Barbara, to teach English at Redwood; Constantino Lavesso, 28, a first year teacher, to teach social studies at Redwood; Patricia Rasmussen, 28, of Santa Barbara, to teach English at Redwood, and Julie Ann Walker, 23, at first year teacher from Northridge, to teach mathematics at Redwood; Sydney Wade, 28, of Beverly Hills, to teach English at Redwood.

Tamalpais Union High School District trustees also:

1. Accepted the resignation of Freeman Blake, social studies teacher at Redwood, who is entering private business.

2. Adopted a policy requiring annual tuberculosis check-ups for all district employees.

3. Awarded a contract, not to exceed $4,000, to Main la Frentz Co. to perform an audit of the current school year.

Attorneys In Murder Trial Face Writs

Defense attorneys for murder suspects Jack R. Gorman, 36, and Marc Charles Osuna, 30, were ordered yesterday in Marin Superior Court to show cause this afternoon why they should not be held in contempt of court for not producing names of alibi witnesses expected to testify in the May 9 trial.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled the hearing on an affidavit by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales that attorneys Jerome Durham, public defender; Thomas P. Boyd, and Richard Tarrant have not complied with a Dec. 31 order to produce the names and addresses of the witnesses.

The order was part of a discovery procedure of information from both the defense and the prosecution.

Durham said today he has produced no such list because he has none. He said he has nothing definite yet about who his alibi witnesses will be, or what their addresses are.

Gorman and Osuna, both in San Quentin Prison, as parole violators, allegedly shot to death San Rafael bartender Mario Ferrari at the Mission Inn last Labor Day.

Rec Commission Votes Budget For Novato

A $35,000 parks budget for next fiscal year was approved last night by the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission, to be presented to the city council.

This includes funds for maintenance, capital outlay, supplies, salaries, and $5,000 landscaping fees for at least five parks which the city hopes to gain or develop during the year: Arroyo Vichi, the park site at Olive and Railroad avenues, Stafford Lake, San Marin, and Pioneer Memorial Park.

or Ernest N. Kettenhofen. His colleagues agreed.

Bruce proposed that a county department of community services be set up to seek jobs for minorities and carry on the community relations program. He proposed a director at $12,600 a year, possibly an administrative assistant, and two employment aides. He estimated this would increase the budget next fiscal year by $40,000 to $50,000.

"There seem to be an awful lot of chiefs and a few Indians who will be crying for tribes they can head," quipped Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

The board was especially leary of getting into the employment field.

An ordinance reducing the human rights commission to nine members was adopted with little debate, but was followed by a sharp exchange between chairman Byron W. Leydecker of the board and executive secretary Wyman Hicks of the commission.

After thanking those who had served on the commission and declaring he did not direct the remark at any of them, Leydecker said he did not want to see "a bunch of do-gooders" on the new commission "getting together and talking to each other, doing nothing but just suaving their egos."

"You're going to lose a commissioner if you talk that way," Hicks said.

"We may lose a commissioner, but we won't lose a commission, my friend," Leydecker retorted.

Hicks said the commission had been hampered by lack of staff and powers. Supervisors agreed to consider giving the stripped-down commission a permanent staff.

They agreed also to provide staff assistance to Miss Ward, who has had little success in finding jobs for Negroes on the Hall of Justice construction, despite the non-discrimination clause written into the contract.

They agreed with Bruce that the community relations service should be taken out of the welfare department, but did not decide where to put it.

There was a good deal of time spent in debate over expenditures already authorized by Bruce for the temporary recreation building. Bruce had signed a two-year lease with Modulux Corp. at $8,000. He reported also that site preparation by the county public works department cost $2,117.

Noting that the building was already going up, Supervisor Kettenhofen finally shrugged. "We may as well approve it."

That was what the board did.

Biting Dog Sought On Rabies Question

Mrs. Ralph Kellogg of 135 Peralta Avenue, Mill Valley, reported to the sheriff's department today that she is looking for the owner of a small brown dog, named Tiger, that bit her daughter, Theresa, 8, in the right leg yesterday.

The girl was bitten on Morningsun Avenue near Homestead Boulevard while walking to her ballet class. Mrs. Kellogg said she is trying to learn whether the dog has had its rabies shots.

Drowsy Customer Gets Locked Into Store

Ruth Riordan of 27 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, fell asleep in the women's restroom at the W. T. Grant store in the Corte Madera Shopping Center last night and when she awakened it was 2 a.m., the store was closed and she was locked in.

She called her husband, James Riordan, from inside the store, and he rounded up police and the manager, who arrived a few minutes later to free her, Corte Madera police reported.

WAR

ment students in Hue pledged support today for the United States in the war against the Communists. In Da Nang, rebellious forces released 13 or 14 political prisoners seized at the height of anti-government demonstrations.

The easing of the political crisis followed a barnstoring tour of rebellious areas by Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang urging acceptance of a pledge by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to hold elections in three to five months. Tri Quang appeared to be scoring some successes.

More than 1,000 students, whose five weeks of demonstrations against the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky had grown increasingly anti-American, held a rally 15 miles north of Hue. They adopted a statement which said:

Students should struggle side by side with Americans; ask the United States to continue aiding South Viet Nam; give thanks for American aid; do not join the Communists; thank all religious leaders "who in good faith have attempted to resolve the present situation," and demand an election of a parliament.

Hub Planners Still Against Apartments

San Anselmo Planning Commission last night authorized chairman Warren Perry to appear before the new city council tonight and ask that last month's decision to rezone property at 20 Tamalpais Avenue from commercial to apartment residential be reconsidered.

Perry was instructed to point out that the rezoning conflicts with the revised downtown center plan, also adopted last month by the commission and the council.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

1. Denied Richard Cantua's request for rezoning from single family to duplex at 4 and 6 Greenfield Court. Nine neighbors signed a petition opposing the rezoning.

2. Approved, by 3-to-1 vote, the final map of the Sunny Hills subdivision. Commissioner John West voted no, saying Sunny Hills Drive, running from Sonoma Avenue to the new orphanage site, should be public.

3. Agreed to study further a suggestion that, in the case of a major planning development or a type of development with which the city staff is not familiar, the commission might consider referring the planning to the county planning staff on a fee basis.

Commissioners Jerry W. Lloyd, James Murphy and Duane C. Ragan were absent. Ragan has submitted his resignation as he will take office tonight on the city council.

Pope Concerned Over Youngsters

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Children around the world who "suffer hunger and the horrors of war" have drawn the concern of Pope Paul VI.

The pontiff spoke yesterday to 5,000 choir children from seven nations.

"Be grateful to God," he said, "because there are many children in the world who do not sing; sick and abandoned children who suffer hunger and the horrors of war and who do not want to sing."

Killer Returned To Death Row

Oliver Stanley Williams, 37-year-old killer who stepped out from the shadow of death for three months, is back again in line for execution at San Quentin.

Williams was discharged from Death Row last Dec. 30 for a new trial in the slaying of an elderly man in Los Angeles County three years ago.

The jury, however, returned a guilty verdict and Williams was again sentenced to death.

His return to the row yesterday brought the total number of condemned inmates to 52. Of these, 17 are out at courts for new trials to determine guilt or penalties.

Air Tank Taken

An air tank for scuba diving, tool box and tools, a diamond ring, two sets of cuff links and a B-B pistol, worth a total of $352, were stolen from the luggage compartment of a car owned by Craig D. Scott, 7530 Redwood Highway, Apt. 3, between April 12 and yesterday, Scott told Novato police yesterday.

School Staff Asks Raises In Novato

Non-teaching employees of Novato Unified School District last night asked trustees for the regular step up on the pay scale this year plus a five per cent across-the-board raise.

Trustees agreed to hold a pecial meeting at 8 p.m. May 9 to discuss the request and its cost to the district, and to consider the budget.

The pay increase was requested by James Baker, chairman of the classified employee salary committee. It would affect about 150 non-teaching persons such as clerks, secretaries, bus drivers, cafeteria workers, etc.

The Novato School District board also:

1. Approved advertising for bids for eight to 10 portable classroms to be placed at Novato High School, to house about 400 students, the Air Force ROTC program recently approved, and classes for mentally retarded students. The portable rooms are expected to be used only one year, until junior high school construction is completed and the three-year junior high program begins.

2. Accepted a $73,300 low bid of Todd Construction Co., Santa Rosa, to construct lockers and a faculty room at the high school. There were three bidders.

3. Agreed that the district would participate, if it finds funds available, in construction of a sidewalk next to Marion School along Grant Avenue, and would like to see trees planted there.

4. Agreed to require teaching of Spanish beginning in the sixth grade and allow it in lower grades.

5. Accepted resignations of Jane Hayase, second grade teacher at Rancho School, and Jacqueline Smith, fourth grade teacher at Hamilton School.

6. Approved hiring of Paul Eiserich to teach social studies and mathematics at San Jose Junior High School; David Hearn, business education at the high school; Janet Imagawa science, high school; Linda Knox, social studies, Hill Junior High School. Although the board approved hiring these teachers, district office personnel said today that salaries have not yet been set for them.

Bodovitz's appointment voided.

Supt. G.R. McConnell had said the Saturday meeting would be closed "because the board will be discussing which candidate it wants to appoint. Every board does this. They don't talk about people in public."

Section 54959 of the California Government Code, a part of the Ralph M. Brown Act, says: "Each member of a legislative body who attends a meeting of such legislative body where action is taken in violation of any provision of this chapter, with knowledge of the fact that the meeting is in violation thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Another section of the same act defines "action taken" as including "a collective commitment or promise by a majority of the members of a legislative body to make a positive or negative decision."

Boy, 5, Tumbles From Moving Car

A 5-year-old San Anselmo boy fell from the rear window of his parents' station wagon in Ross Sunday night without their realizing an accident had happened for several minutes.

The vehicle continued on its way while Ross police rushed David Moore, son of Dennis Moore of 147 Allyn Avenue, San Anselmo, to Marin General Hospital where he was treated for minor cuts.

The accident happened close by the Ross police station. It was several minutes before the boy's parents backtracked and made frantic inquiries for the missing boy at nearby Ross fire station.

Marinites In Japan After Viet Nam Tour

Navy Ensign William K. Gaylord and Electronics Technician 2c Lee J. Haddick, both Marinites, have returned to Yokosuka, Japan, after eight weeks off Viet Nam aboard the destroyer Joseph Strauss.

Gaylord is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gaylord of 181 Deer Hollow Road, Sleepy Hollow. Haddick is a son of Mrs. Jeanne Chamber of 11 South Knoll Road, Mill Valley.

San Rafael Windows Broken By Vandals

Someone held a lighted flare against the corner of a nine-by-six-foot window of the J&J Appliance Co., 1205 Third Street, cracking the glass. A similar window in front of the Lyre Bird Book Store, 832 B Street, was smashed. Police said replacement cost would be about $300 each.

the union was ignoring the request, which could lead to court action.

More than 12,000 other union employees at the cape crossed the lines. Except for some slowdown in construction, activity here was normal on the second day of picketing.

The electricians, who work on solid-fuel boosters for the Air Force Titan 3 space rocket, are striking in a wage dispute with United Technology Center, a division of United Aircraft Corp.

The single gate policy, worked out by the Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has proved effective in minimizing effects of past strikes here.

Under it, TUC employees, subcontractors and suppliers use only the south gate to Cape Kennedy. Thus, if the electricians picketed any other gate, the government could file unfair labor practice charges, since the union's quarrel is only with UTC.

The strikers are members of California-based Local 1201. They and 225 UTC electricians in California voted Saturday to strike after contract negotiations broke down. The contract expired last Friday.

The electricians here make $3.93 an hour. They ask an hourly raise of 15 cents plus a 30-cent "field rate" for working at the cape. The company offered a 19-cent boost, with no field rate.

Meanwhile striking electricians and United Technology Corp. representatives have agreed to meet tomorrow with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in San Francisco.

Pickets were posted yesterday at the UTC Sunnyvalle headquarters, at nearby Coyote Development and Test Center and at the new plant in Redwood City, where napalm is to be produced.

Design Rejected For Humble Oil

Humble Oil Co., which wants a service station at Fifer and Nellen avenues in Corte Madera, made its second appearance before the town board of design last night—this time producing a design for a rear entrance to the station as recommended by the planning commission.

According to board secretary Betty Long, neither company representatives nor members of the board liked the design and the matter was sent back to the planning commisison with the previously approved design.

The board also objected to the red, white and yellow color scheme for the proposed Twin Castle Restaurant at Montecito and Redwood avenue. The architect promised to return with new plans April 25.

Bel Marin Loses Private Attorney

Directors of Bel Marin Keys Community Services District last night accepted the resignation of Leland H. Jordan as attorney for the district an agreed to make use of the free services of the county counsel's office henceforth.

Roger Hicks, elected last Tuesday, was sworn into office replacing Mrs. Jack West, the last representative of the developer's family to sit on the three-member board.

Directors agreed to invite a representative of the county counsel's office to attend the May 12 meeting to explain the legal requirements of community services district operation, Hicks reported today.

Sonic Boom Blamed On Edwards Plane

A sonic boom which rattled windows and shook buildings at about 10:45 a.m. today from Corte Madera to Novato was blamed on an Air Force experimental plane from Edwards Air Force Base.

The Federal Aviation Agency reported from Oakland that an experimental plane of an unspecified type was scheduled to be within "booming range" at that time, Air Force spokesmen at Hamilton Air Force Base said.

Airport Meeting

The Marin County Aviation Commission will meet at the Civic Center at 8 a.m. today to discuss the proposed civilian runway parallel to Hamilton Air Force Base runway, backed by commission chairman Benjamin R. Ostlind.

Engagement Tale Denied By Jackie

SEVILLE, Spain (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy today flatly denied reports of a planned engagement to Spanish diplomat Antonio Garrigues.

"I want to make it crystal clear and completely understood that there is no basis in fact in rumors of an engagement," said U.S. Ambassador Angier Biddle Duke, speaking for Mrs. Kennedy.

"Mrs. Kennedy deserves one's respect and understanding and should not be subjected to false rumors of any kind," Duke told newsmen.

PRICES CRASH FOR RED TAG DAYS

"Loveliest crash of the season!" exclaims Patricia Repp of San Rafael, gathering up the dollars, representing savings which shoppers will make during San Rafael Red Tag Days on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Merchant Albert Grimm grimaces in mock "pain" at the thought of the values knocked down for the city-wide sales event. Sponsored by the retail merchants committee of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, Red Tag Days promises a broad assortment of bargain of quality merchandise at participating stores. Values will be advertised in a special Red Tag section of the Independent-Journal tomorrow.

PARK BONDS QUERIED

San Rafael Eyes Own Bond Issue

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

San Rafael city councilmen last night looked a gift horse in the mouth, with particular attention to the gold fillings.

The gift horse in this case was the proposed $4.3 million county park bond issue, which goes before voters June 7. The gold fillings were the $511,000 the City of San Rafael is to be allocated from the bond issue, under the terms set up by the county board of supervisors.

Councilman Charles W. Aby urged that the council go on record in support of the bond issue.

"The people of San Rafael will benefit whether the money is spent in San Rafael, Mill Valley, Tiburon, or out at Point Reyes," contended Aby. "Any park that is built any place is open to people wherever they live. . .The whole idea is basically worthwhile . . . regardless of whether we get close to what our valuation is."

Mayor C. Paul Bettini agreed. "Parks are for everyone," he said.

But Councilmen Harry A. Barbier, Fred E. Jensen and Louis H. Baar wanted to know whether San Rafael would do better by having its own park bond issue. Parks and Recreation Director Joseph D. Rodota said the county issue would cost four cents on the tax rate. The three councilmen wondered whether that levy might produce more than $511,000 when applied to San Rafael's valuation.

Rodota was told to get the figures from City Finance Officer Orrin Wendling before the May 2 city council meeting. He was told, also, to advise the parks and recreation commission to hold public hearings on its plans for use of the $511,000—if the county bond issue passes.

Rodota outlined those plans briefly. They call for the majority of the money to be used to acquire park sites in new subdivisions, with a portion to build a recreation center at Albert Field, some to be used to develop an aquatic park in conjunction with the county, and some set aside for a contingency fund.

Meanwhile, the City of San Rafael acquired 10 acres of open land at no cost to it.

About six acres on a steep hill adjoining San Rafael Park Unit 3 were deeded to the city by Permabilt Corp., developers. The council accepted this while approving the final map for the 48-lots ubdivision.

About four acres were deeded by Alan Kay, whose final map for 27-lot Highland Vista Unit 3 adjoining Rafael Highlands was accepted. This also is a hillside.

Both are shown as open areas and likely will remain so, although City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen noted that the deeds are without restriction as to possible future use.

Drake Study Of Curriculum By Students

A student curriculum committee is being formed at Sir Francis Drake High School, according to student body president Dennis Askew.

The idea for the committee came from the Governor's Youth Conference at Sacramento, and the followup conference at College of Marin on March 19, Askew said.

Students representing all the high school grade levels will be appointed to the committee, to work with the Tamalpais High School District board.

Askew said that one of the first items the committee will consider is the feasibility of changing the traditional A, B, C, D and F grading system to a system of good, satisfactory, and poor, to relieve some of the pressures on students.

SIX DECADES

Councilman Remembers The Quake

"Sixty years ago tonight, I was a little lost boy in San Francisco."

The speaker was City Councilman Fred E. Jensen, recalling at last night's San Rafael City Council meeting the April 18, 1906, San Francisco earthquake and fire.

"We were burned out," he went on. "My father was trying to make a lean-to for us to stay in. I wandered away."

Lost in the confusion, he finally was recognized by some people who had taken refuge in a box car, he related. He spent the night with them. Next morning they took him to where refugees from the fires were preparing breakfast in the open.

"Finally my father came . . . He was kissing me and calling me 'darling'—and after it was all over he gave me an awful licking.

"I never will forget that night. I was 6 years old five days before the earthquake."

School Officials Balk Over State Coordinator Demand

A state law requiring the Marin County Schools office to hire a $14,325 a year curriculum coordinator for the mentally retarded program annoyed a Marin County Board of Education committee last night.

Personnel committee members sought alternatives to the hiring of an additional coordinator for the schools office to fill the post.

Mrs. Edith Kanoff said the requirement, part of the state education code, was aimed at counties where nothing has been done to develop programs for mentally retarded pupils.

The "job is already being done in Marin," Mrs. Kanoff said. She suggested that the board petition the state to be relieved of the requirement.

Kenneth W. Lowry, administrative consultant, said cost of the coordinator would have to be financed through the county property tax, and would amount to about 3 mills on the tax rate.

Committee members discussed the possibility of the new job being assigned to one of the existing administrative staff in the schools office. But Lowry pointed out that none of them has a credential to teach mentally retarded children, which is required.

The schools office also is seeking a coordinator of curriculum development to succeed Edwin L. Blackmore, who will leave the staff at the end of the school year.

Committee member James A. Carroll suggested that the board consider switching Daryl A. Hopkins, now director of special services, to Blackmore's post, and then filling Hopkins' post with someone who meets the state requirements for coordinator for mentally retarded. By this method the district would be hiring only one coordinator instead of two.

The personnel committee consisting of Dolcini, Mrs. Kanoff and Carroll, also recommended hiring Mrs. Sharon L. Coppin as an intermediate typist at $345 a month, and Wililam LaValley, a College of Marin student, as a programmer in the schools data processing center for four days a week at $408 a month.

Lowry reported that Robert Manthey, teacher of the educable mentally retarded at Bel Air School, Tiburon, has submitted his resignation effective the end of the school year.

The board's administrative services committee will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the new schools office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Bolinas Girl Hurt When Car Hits Rail

Jaime Vitelli, 18, of Bolinas was treated at San Rafael General Hospital for scrapes on right thigh and cuts on the forehead after a car in which she was riding struck a guard rail at the North San Pedro Road offramp of Highway 101 Sunday.

Driver was Frank R. Cambria, 19, of 23 Briarwood Drive, San Rafael, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Two Marinites Home On Leave

Two Marin County youths are home on leave between Navy assignments.

Seaman Apprentice Michael T. Hook, son of Lilah L. Hook, 258 Adele Avenue, Novato, is home after completing recruit training in San Diego. He is scheduled to attend the Naval Submarine School at New London, Conn.

Seaman Apprentice Paul B. Tietjen, son of Mrs. Alice Tietjen, 241 Morningside Drive, Corte Madera, is home after duty at Coos Head Naval Station, Coos Bay, Ore. He is scheduled to be transferred to duty aboard the Theodore E. Chandler, which is slated to have Yokosuka, Japan, as its home port.

THE GOURMET By Petrini Presents

HAWAIIAN BEEF AND RICE

A delightful South Seas Recipe

Use a 3 to 4 lb. Cross Rib, Rump, Manhattan, Scotch or Bottom Round Roast

½ cup Brown Sugar
¼ cup wine vinegar
½ cu Beef stock or Consomme
2 medium onions, chopped
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 small bay leaf
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine all ingredients, place roast in a glass bowl, pour marinade over roast. Place roast in refrigerator overnight. To cook, place roast in a heavy skillet, pour marinade over, place cover on tightly. Cook in oven approximately 2½ to 3 hours at 325 degrees, turn occasionally. Slice roast in thin slices. Serve remaining marinade with roast and over boiled rice.

PUPILS TALK JOBS

School Career Day Held For Sausalito

"Half of you are now preparing for occupations and jobs that don't now exist.

"Since you are, it means it is absolutely necessary that you learn.

"Another important factor is that we're living in a time of change. Probably the only thing we can be absolutely sure of is that we will face change, rapid change, probably much more rapid than what we have seen in the last few years."

These comments were made last night to eighth graders at a "career evening" at Sausalito's Richardson Bay School by Mrs. Jacqueline Smith. Mrs. Smith, a social worker, formerly headed the Marin City program for the Marin Council of Community Services.

About 150 persons, eighth grade students and their parents plus educators, attended the event arrangedb y Mrs. Santafe J. Moses, Sausalito School District counselor.

Pupils and speakers in 29 fields split up in five rooms following a social hour. In the library, nine adult job representatives, mostly Negroes, tlaked on personal services and social work. Students Chris Alban of Sausalito and Gloria Dickens of Marin City conducted the meeting.

Fire Chief Charles E. Masten and Police Detective James B. Kane of Sausalito stressed the increased need for education to be either firefighter or police officer. Masten asked if any pupil wanted to be a fireman and no pupil responded: Kane asked about police work and one hand shot up.

Louis Preston of San Rafael and Sarah Corum of Berkeley, social workers with Marin County social services department, explained their duties. Clarence Johnson discussed civil service, attorney John Dearman told pupils that to be an attorney it is helpful to learn English and how to speak.

Hair stylist Jose La Crosby described his work and, when asked by Chris Alban if there was any place "to go" in his field, said, "there is no limit to where you can go—$20,000 to $100,000 a year."

"To get a job, do you have to go to college?" asked student Mark Conlan, Marin City.

Replied Johnson:

"There is a value of getting as much education as possible but—we have also to come to the point of recognizing the importance of the dignity of work.

"Even if an educated person collects the garbage, this does not mean he shouldn't have appreciation for music and the arts."

Improvement Clubs Hear Park Proposal

Sixteen members of the Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs engaged in a lively question and answer session last night with county park and recreation commissioner Melton Ferris about the proposed county-wide park bond issue.

The $4.3 million bond issue will be voted on in the June 7 primary.

Ferris answered questions after delivering a talk titled "Parks, People and Property values."

Federation president Herbert E. Davis said a majority of the group favors the proposal, but a few members have unresolved concerns about some parts of it. No vote was taken.

Members also heard a report on the status of Marincello, developers of which have been appearing almost weekly before county supervisors to seek approval of some phase of the controversial planned community.

Next meeting will be at 8 p.m. May 9 ata Civic Center. Davis said it probably will be devoted to a summary of a survey being done by member clubs on zoning problems in various parts of the county.

The bayonet was invented in Bayonne, France in 1640 and gets its name from the name of the city. They were first used in battle in 1647 at Ypres.

Ross Board Juggles With Pay Hike Plan

Four members of the Ross School District Board spent nearly four hours last night trying to juggle an expected teachers' salary increase and their hopes of reducing the district tax rate in fiscal 1967.

Supt. Robert Gowan said the board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday on the salary hike.

The board last night approved several general principles which will govern the new salary schedule, Gowan said. Among these is the intent to reward teachers with master's degrees and to make salaries high enough to attract new people into the district.

Teachers have proposed two possible schedules. One, with salaries from $5,700 to $11,040, would cost the district an extra $27,000, over the current schedule, according to Gowan. The other would run from $6,000 to $11,200 and would cost an extra $30,000.

The lengthy discussion on this led to another long discussion on the tentative $373,000 budget prepared by Gowan and outgoing Supt. William W. Monahan.

Present budget is $352,541, but Gowan said expected assessment increases may make it possible not only to hold the present tax rate but to cut it. The district's rate this year totaled $3.21 per $100 assessed valuation.

Before their regular meeting, board members held a 45-minute closed session to interview prospective new teachers. After the closed meeting, they hired Ralph Kermoian of San Francisco as vice-principal at $11,600 yearly starting next fall, and Sue Wilsey of Tiburon as an intermediate teacher. Miss Wilsey is now a substitute at the school.

Board member Van Norden Logan was absent.

Three Men Come Back From Viet Duty Tour

Three Navy men from Marin are back "stateside" after six months with the Seventh Fleet in the South China Sea off Viet Nam.

Machinist Mate 3c Robert A. Young, son of Mrs. Lillian Derlen of 250 Solano Avenue, San Rafael, and Seaman Lavern E. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Roberts of 71 Shell Road, Alto, were aboard the destroyer Brinkley Bass. Machinist Mate 3c Gordon D. Irish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gorden H. Irish of 234 Coleman Drive, San Rafael, was aboard the amphibious assault carrier Valley Forge.

Coinboxes Looted

Manager Clara E. Dorothy reported to San Rafael police last night 11 coinboxes to washing machines at the Tropicana Apartments, 100 Bayo Vista Way, had been pried open, and about $150 in quarters were gone.

Marin Youths Sign For Navy

Three Marin youths enlisted in the Navy last week at the Navy Recruiting Branch Station in San Rafael, according to Chief Robert E. Betts.

Ronald J. Doris, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Doris, 115 Peacock Drive, enlisted for four years. Steven K. Irey, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Irey, 53 Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield, enlisted until he reaches the age of 21. Both will undergo recruit training at the San Diego Naval Training Center.

Dennis R. Giambastiani, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Giambastiani, 45 Pleasant Lane, San Rafael, enlisted in the "Join Now, Go Later" program and will not have to report for recruit training for 120 days.

Election Today Sets Fate Of American Valley School

About 100 voters in ranching families in southern Sonoma County and a few in northwest Marin held an election today on whether to give up sending their youngsters to a one-room school and, instead send them to a larger, graded school.

Polls are open until 7 p.m. at the one-room American Valley school in Valleyford, Sonoma County. If voters approve joining the American Valley district with the Tomales Bay School District, pupils will go to the Tomales School.

About 16 pupils now attend the American Valley School. Parents pay tuition to send their five seventh and eighth graders to Tomales School.

The one-room Bloomfield School District in Sonoma County will officially become part of the Tomales District on July 1 —a move voters already have approved.

One-Party Cabinet Set Up In Austria

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austria got its first postwar one-party government today as an all-Conservative Cabinet took over after 21 years of coalition with the Socialists.

The Conservatives decided last night to form a government alone after the Socialists refused to accept any reduction of their role in the government although the Conservatives had won a majority in Parliament in the March 6 elections.

Proposed East Plan Gets Few Objections

Few objections to engineer-planner Daniel P. Coleman's proposed East San Rafael plan were voiced at its first public hearing before the San Rafael City Council last night.

Coleman was not present, but the plan was introduced and described briefly by Acting City Planner Charles J. Linthicum. A second public hearing will be held May 16.

One woman complained that a commercial recreation area shown beside the San Rafael Canal opposite Paganini Point was "where we now see open water."

"This is filling the bay," she declared.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said the area already has been filled. No further filling is required, he said.

Linthicum said there is one exception: A base for the western end of a bridge across the canal to Paganini Point. Approval of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission would be required for this, he noted.

The plan calls for no fill beyond the present levee, water beyond it being under jurisdiction of the Bay-wide commission.

The plan calls for a parkway that would begin at Highway 17 — perhaps with an overpass rather than a direct connection, Linthicum said—and would follow the levee and shore line, perhaps eventually being extended all the way to a connection with Highway 17 at Black Point. Linthicum asked a resident who questioned this idea to return May 16 to hear from Coleman.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. At request of appellants Eugene Aureguy and Harold G. Mackenzie, put off to May 16 hearing of an appeal from planning commission restrictions on a commercial development near the Terra Linda turnoff on Highway 101 frontage road.

2. Unanimously upheld planning commission turndown of two gasoline pumps at the Short Stop Store, 141 Bellam Boulevard. John Roscoe of Short Stop Stores explained the pumps would be controlled by a clerk inside the grocery store, with customers filling their own cars' gasoline tanks. "I can't see anything but a sloppy operation," said Councilman Louis H. Baar. Other councilmen agreed.

3. Put off until May 2 further consideration of banning parking from 4 to 6 p.m. on Lincoln Avenue between Second and Pacheco streets. Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles, attending his first council meeting since being taken ill in January, said he would take the proposal up with the city traffic committee today.

4. Approved distribution of $19,368.95 in surplus funds of the East San Rafael Assessment District, after being satisfied by a letter from Edwin M. Ness, assistant district attorney, that $42,296.07 in fees for George S. Nolte Consulting Engineers were in accordance with the agreement setting up the district.

5. Adopted a resolution asking that the State Division of Highways open a direct connection between Second Street and Francisco Boulevard West, with a right turn provision at Irwin Street.

6. Put off to June 6 further discussion of an ordinance governing undergrounding of utilities in new subdivisions, to await state action in the field.

7. Put off to May 2 appointment by Mayor C. Paul Bettini of a member of the library commission, and by Councilman Charles W. Aby of a replacement for Irving Chapman, who declined to serve, on the charter revision committee. Neither Bettini nor Aby had a name ready to present last night.

8. Approved a plan by City Engineer Ely Caillouette for correcting a drainage problem on the 100 block of Glen Park Avenue. Caillouette estimated it would cost about $2,500.

9. Received from Chief Building Inspector Jack Coates maps of the proposed new fire zones for a change of the fire zone ordinance to follow use rather than zoning. Carl S. Brown of the Associated Home Builders and architect Robert W. F. Severin spoke in favor of the change.

10. Called for bids, to be opened May 2, on a drainage correction project on Magnolia and Palm avenues, with cost to be shared half-and-half by the city and the Dominican Convent. City Engineer Caillouette estimated cost at $18,500.

11. Granted Carl Dethlefsen permission to landscape a small piece of city property adjoining his used car lot at Second Street and Grand Avenue.

12. Put off call for bids on storm drain installations on Fourth Street at Lootens Place and A Street after Mayor Bettini and Councilmen Harry A. Barbier said a similar drain might be needed at or near Lincoln Avenue before Fourth Street is regraded for installation of parallel parking.

13. Called for new bids on furniture for the new city hall, to be opened May 2. The first bids were all returned after several furniture dealers objected to lack of time for bidding and to some specifications. The new call does not include any furnishings for the lobby, for which chairs retailing at $980 each were specified before.

14. Authorized hiring Robert M. Taylor as maintenance man at $442 per month, and Rose Craner as account clerk at $362, both starting April 1.

15. Granted maintenance man Richard Harder an indefinite sick leave without pay.

16. Turned down a request by Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa for an additional police laboratory room in the new city hall. "Let's not start boxing up the new city hall before we move into it," said Councilman Fred E. Jensen.

17. Set for hearing May 2 an appeal by Richard M. Lewis of planning commission reduction in the size of a sign for a small shopping center at 118 Bellam Boulevard.

18. Instructed City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen to notify the State Division of Highways that Northwestern Pacific Railroad is rebuilding the Puerto Suello Tunnel and the city expects the state to start work on widening Highway 101 during next fiscal year. The state had been waiting on outcome of the tunnel dispute.

19. Heard Gerard A. Hendriks of 326 Forbes Avenue complain of repeated sewage backup at and in front of his home, and told City Engineer Caillouette to make installation of a larger sanitary sewer in the area a priority item for next fiscal year's budget.

20. Authorized installation of an automatic telephone system in the new city hall, to cost $1,900.

Man, Wife Lucky As Car Tumbles

An Oakland man and his wife escaped serious injury when their sports car skidded off Pierce Point Road, flipped over and landed upside down in a pond four miles north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Highway Patrol officer Arthur W. Krebs said the car, driven by John E. Chapman, 25, skidded 240 feet before running off the road on a curve. It then went through a fence and flipped over "at least once" before landing in the three-foot deep pool, Krebs said.

Underground Lines Plan May Delay Joint Proposal

Did the Marin County Board of Supervisors once agree to "streamlined" utilities on widened San Pedro Road, then change its mind to demand that they be undergrounded beyond Lowrie's Yacht Harbor?

San Rafael city councilmen last night contended that it did.

The council held a public hearing on extending the Third Street-San Pedro Road underground utility district from Embarcadero to the Porto Bello pumping station. And Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles informed councilmen that supervisors last Tuesday adopted an ordinance calling for all utilities to be underground beyond Harbor View Court.

This, said Rawles, in response to a question by City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, might delay the joint city-county project for widening San Pedro Road by as much as six months.

Councilmen agreed that when the city-county joint powers agreement on the road project was prepared, the county had agreed that streamlining—placing street lights on metal poles in the center island and taking all service wires underground—which was installed from Union Street to Embarcadero would be continued throughout the project.

Rawles said the first he knew of a change of mind by the supervisors was when he read of it in the Independent-Journal.

"The only communication we've had from the county is what we read in the newspaper," put in Andersen.

All service lines beyond Lowrie's are from pole lines run through back yards, so no property owner would be involved, Rawles noted.

None of the 13 property owners from Harbor View Court to Embarcadero—who would be served from the streamlined system—objected to it.

Cost of undergrounding the additional 1,600-foot distance would be about $48,000, a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. representative reported. He said he had no answer from his company headquarters as to whether PG&E would be willing to bear the cost.

Upshot of the discussion was passage of the ordinance extending the underground district with provision that the installation can be "streamlined." Extension of the district is necessary anyhow to require affected property owners to pay for underground service connections.

Leydecker To Ask Reprieve For Marin City Housing

Marin County supervisors in a special session yesterday afternoon voted to send Chairman Byron W. Leydecker to Washington Monday to testify before the Senate Banking and Currency committee in hope of keeping the building program in Marin City alive.

H. Ralph Taylor, a vice president of the California Development Corp., which is building homes in Marin City, told supervisors that a recent policy decision of the Federal National Homes Assn. and tightening of the money market have jeopardized further construction.

He said he did not see how the company's plans for construction of 75 to 80 more homes in Marin City this year could be financed, unless federal aid is granted.

"We believe it would be futile to try to get a change of policy, but we would like an exception made," Taylor said.

Supervisors unanimously endorsed payment of travel expenses for Leydecker and also gave unanimous backing to resolutions to be sent to California's two senators; Rep. Donald R. Clausen, R-First District; Robert C. Weaver, secretary of housing and urban development, and President Johnson.

The resolutions urge that the federal government make an exception in the change of policy and back housing mortgage loans in Marin City.

Small Boat Taken

Peter M. Sutter of 10 Fern Avenue, Belvedere, reported the theft of his nine-foot dinghy from the Corinthian Yacht Club harbor Sunday. The boat was taken between 5 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. yesterday, he told sheriff's officers in Tiburon.

California Doesn't Need National Jobless Pay Law

We have serious misgivings about HR 8282, now before Congress, which would force all states to meet federal standards in unemployment benefits and threaten each state's control over its own unemployment insurance program.

The aim of unemployment insurance should be to tide over those who are temporarily jobless and in financial straits through no fault of their own.

No one can seriously quarrel with this worthy aim. But too often, it is abused by those who try to make a career of living off the benefits. The more liberal these benefits, the less the inducement for those unemployed or on the fringes of employment to seek permanent jobs.

Last year, the California Legislature made some important changes in its unemployment insurance laws to tighten up on some of the abuses. The minimum earning to qualify was raised from $600 to $720. Previously, the disqualification period was five weeks for a worker who left a job voluntarily without good cause or who was discharged for misconduct. Now California withholds benefits from such a person until he returns to work and earns five times his weekly benefit amount.

State restrictions such as these, whose purpose is to screen out the unworthy claimants, would be nullified by HR 8282.

In addition to the shift from state to federal control, HR 8282 would extend coverage of unemployment insurance to some five million additional people and would require substantial increase in benefit payments in most states.

The cost of this great added burden will be borne by business and by working people who are already saddled with heavy taxes.

Among those to whom coverage would be extended are farm workers and employees of non-profit organizations and small businesses.

Commentator Caspar W. Weinberger points out that many non-profit organizations are private educational institutions like Stanford University. "The proposed act, in its present form, would cost Stanford $1,250,000 a year, which is equivalent to the income from an endowment of about $25 million."

Extension of unemployment insurance to farm workers probably would increase the cost of food. Farm labor costs would go up, and farmers would be required to do a great deal of additional paper work.

Proponents of HR 8282 argue that state laws have failed to keep up with progress. Steady improvements in California refute this allegation.

We believe that in California, we should concentrate our efforts on plugging loopholes to prevent abuses while providing adequate subsistence to those who genuinely seek but cannot find employment.

HR 8282 would seem to have the opposite effect. By over-liberalizing unemployment insurance benefits, it would encourage the voluntarily idle to remain idle, and for longer periods and with less incentive to get back to work.

WHAT VALUE A BOX OF IRON?

If you sometimes wonder "What do I count?" you may draw some encouragement from the following:

—A plain bar of iron is worth $5.

—The same piece of iron made into horseshoes would sell for $10.50.

—If made into needles, it would be worth $3,000.

—And if it is turned into balance springs for watches, it would have a total value of around $250,000.

Man, too, has meaning and value in the light of his relationship to Someone higher.

With God's never-failing help, the raw material of your own life can be purified and refined into something of tremendous value for all eternity.

"He shall have pity for the lowly and the poor, the lives of the poor He shall save."

Television Advisory Committee Just Another Frill Of Brown's

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Another government frill, involving a field now adequately handled by private industry, is being proposed by Governor Brown. This frill has the potential of costing the taxpayers millions of dollars in the future, aside from the fact that it could become a menace to a nationwide business.

This was seen as the governor revealed plans for a statewide television service that he says "eventually will reach every community in the state."

He says his Television Advisory Committee is providing a technical blueprint for the educational television network and that the report is a first step in plans for the state-wide television service. A detailed program will be submitted to the 1967 Legislature.

He listed objectives, declaring that "we must find ways of providing additional state support of educational television at the local level." Presumably, no other methods of providing state support are available than the process of legislative appropriation of the taxpayers' money.

Along with his objective of providing additional state support for the proposed statewide system, the governor said that with completion of the technical study, the state needs a survey of requirements for programming, management, and operations.

He also says that because educational television stations currently operate under a variety of different ownership and administrative patterns it is necessary to "develop methods permitting the state to join in support of the various legal entities involved."

AND AGAIN, "We must develop co-ordinated state, city, and county uses for educational television in training policemen and other employees for other uses."

The last objective, "We will need a second-phase technical study to provide final details on transmission facilities and interconnections which were not provided in the initial study."

The report submitted to the governor from his advisory commission suggests a system of orderly expansion that can serve as a guide for all agencies in the state as they become involved with the use of television.

CREATION OF another state agency by the Legislature is urged in the report. This would be at taxpayer expense and the proposed group would have authority to continue studies and development of the statewide television service which their report says is not possible under the present committee establishment.

State Luxury Tax Looms

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Do you want to start paying a 6 per cent tax in California on cosmetics, jewelry, luggage, clocks etc.?

The bill is already in the committee on revenue and taxation.

It was introduced in March by Assemblyman Dymally of Los Angeles.

The bill is known as the "luxury tax law" and is the same as the federal excise tax.

I will give three names of Northern California assemblymen who are on this committee which is Assembly Bill No. 8. They are Nicholas C. Petris, Robert W. Crown and Alfred E. Alquist.

Mr. Brown doesn't know what his right hand is doing because he is left handed or vice-versa.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was interested in your obituary for Ned Hanchett, with whom I have taught at the San Jose Intermediate School for the past five years. It is perhaps understandable that in your effort to put into capsule form the life of a complicated and vital human being, you would dwell on a background which no longer represented the man. Nor would Ned have been ashamed of any part of his background. He was, above all, honest, direct, and forthright. He was also, as your obituary back-handedly pointed out, protective of the rights of other human beings.

I would like to add to the picture which you presented. Ned Hanchett, in all his years of teaching, remained devoted to the idea that each child deserved the best education that he could provide. He tried to live the ideal of democracy and equality of opportunity in the classroom. He believed that no child should be excluded to the wilderness and poor expectations and lack of opportunity provided in many schools for the "slow learner."

We were lucky to have him on our teaching staff, and he will be deeply missed.

Bad Planning By Commission

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I feel it is completely wrong that a small group of men such as the members of the Marin County Planning Commission, with utter disregard for justice, have the power to strip the Goldsborough property of its legal rights after 46 years of ownership.

Forty-six years ago, Lee Goldsborough bought a lot on Molino Avenue, overlooking Mill Valley, for his new bride, Norma. This was to be the site of their first home.

Four years later Norma and Lee bought the adjoining lot with the hopes of building a larger, new home as their family increased in size. The small home was built on the far end of the lots leaving two-thirds of the property vacant for the new home.

When Norma found she was unable to have a family, the extra lot was divided from the first by a high, dense hedge and set aside as a nest egg. For 46 years the taxes were paid on this property. It was their investment, their security. They held it as their protection against the future.

Then, when applying to build upon this remaining property the owners were informed that under the now existing ordinance, these lots were 400 square feet shorter in area (about the size of a standard garage) than is now required. A variance was sought for this small amount and the four members of the Marin County Planning Commission present voted for denial.

Unless this kind of planning attitude is stopped, this same thing can happen to any one of us. None of us can be assured that our property rights or our rights as individuals can be secure. We must act to protect these rights. Join together, write your supervisor to protest this kind of action or there will be no security for anyone who holds property for himself or his children.

Neighbors Need To Do More

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Outbreaks of violence among the young people of Marin City reflect a failure among the rest of us. I do not refer to the county supervisors, who apparently are doing their best, but rather to all of us as neighbors and fellow citizens.

Apart from needing jobs and recreational facilities, Marin City's youth cry out for a feeling of equality. All of us who profess the Judaeo-Christian ethic must not only support fair employment practices and unrestricted leisure-time activities, but we must also strive in every way to eliminate second-class citizenship.

I am not sure what measures should be taken respecting young people of high school age and beyond, but certainly every civic group, every church, and every family should address itself to the question. In Bergen County New Jersey, where I lived until recently, visits between Negro and white families were sponsored by churches and other organizations.

The Sausalito-Mill Valley interdistrict agreement, whereby 100 elementary school children from Mill Valley attend Richardson Bay School, should be supported and extended. A like number of Marin City children should be invited to attend Mill Valley schools, as Mrs. Nan Hepp has suggested. In time I would like to see the elementary schools of southern Marin completely integrated like Tam High, since "voluntary" plans give free choice only to parents—not to children. My sons (aged 7 and 8) attended a school with a 30 per cent Negro enrollment last year—and look back on the experience with nostalgia.

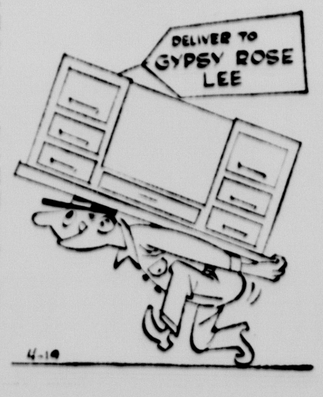
TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

FORMER ECDYSIAST Gypsy Rose Lee is now conducting a syndicated TV chit-chat program every weekday afternoon, aimed at the ladies, and is accordingly getting a very different kind of fan mail than was her wont in the old days when she stripped her sheers. One letter she received had a printed letterhead reading "From the desk of Gypsy Rose Lee." The writer proposed, "If you'll send me your autographed photo, I'll send you back the desk."



JOHN STRALEY tells about a shapely gal who took up bowling, but wasn't very good at it. By accident she made her first strike late in the evening, but put so much body English into her roll that she fell flat on her derriere even as her ball was knocking over all the pins. "And there you see, folks," caroled her delighted partner, "another one of those sit-down strikes!"

SIGNS OF the times:

At the gate of a brand new factory in California: "Men wanted to work on nuclear fissionable isotope counters and three-phase photo synthesizers. No experience necessary."

On the door of a bankrupt bookshop: "Words failed us!"

President Johnson Has Habit Doing Some Things On Impulse

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is a restless man, bent on doing things his way, even though he gets criticized. He's been criticized for not holding more news conferences. He's held fewer, not more.

President John F. Kennedy liked to read a book at night. Johnson takes a bundle of government papers up to his bedroom with him. And, as if that were not enough, telephones people till midnight.

KENNEDY HAD a mixed life, government and social. Johnson's whole life is government and always has been, with some interruptions for the necessary social occasions.

Kennedy might stride along the sands at Cape Cod or relax on a yacht. Johnson's idea of relaxing is to march around the White House lawn, drive his own car around his ranch or get a massage every night before bedtime.

AND SOMETIMES, in sheer frustration it seems, he gets away from the center of something that plagues him but that can't be solved right away.

Earlier this year, when his Viet Nam policy was being heavily criticized in the Senate but he had no intention of changing it, he abruptly flew to Honolulu for a conference with South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ky's enemies later accused him of being a lackey for running off to Hawaii to meet Johnson.

AND NOW WHEN the Buddhists were in the midst of trying to topple Ky's military government, and the American government seemed in a box about doing anything to stop it, Johnson flew off to his Texas ranch.

Then, after a few days there, he made a 24-hour trip to Mexico, although all this seemed like a good time for him to stay close to the White House since so much was at stake for the United States in Viet Nam.

He could give a simple answer to this, of course. He was in just as close contact with the State Department and Pentagon on his ranch as he would have been at the White House. Possibly.

NEVERTHELESS, while some of his actions — like the sudden trip to Honolulu—have been criticized as impulsive, his critics would have more difficulty putting the impulsive brand on his decisions, like ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam resumed after a long pause while peace efforts were made.

But one of the most stinging criticisms of this failure to have more formal news conferences came recently from the Christian Science Monitor's Washington correspondent, Richard L. Strout, who writes with the vitality and joy of 22.

Strout, one of the most delightful writers writing out of the capital, pointed out that, while Kennedy held news conferences about once every two weeks, Johnson has had only one formal conference this year.

Instead of facing 300 or so reporters loaded with all kinds of questions, Johnson prefers sudden sessions with the small group of newsmen who cover him regularly at the White House or individual newsmen permitted to talk with him privately.

STROUT TAKES a dim view of this presidential method of giving the public news.

He said: "Where a modern president foregoes the regular press conference — and I acknowledge it has many faults and is time-consuming and even irksome — you are apt to get a substitute: Government by leak, information by seepage, news-ooze."

Liberal Demo Group Has House Power

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The militantly liberal Democratic Study Group is intensifying and expanding its challenge of the influence and control of the party's regular House leaders.

Composed of 142 of the 295 House Democrats, the study group not only is duplicating the structure of the regular leadership, but has set up its own staff and operating machinery, is raising its own campaign funds and formulating its own legislation.

THERE ARE BACKSTAGE indications regular House leaders are far from happy about all this. But there is little, if anything, they can do about it.

With approximately one-half of the Democratic members in DSG ranks, party leaders have to speak softly and tread cautiously. A DSG disaffection of any proportion could be extremely painful.

Graphically illustrative of the liberals' strategic position is the decisive role they played in the House's recent approval of the administration's long-stalled $12 million rent subsidy appropriation. Virtually all DSG members voted for it, enabling the controversial proposal to skin through the chamber by a hairline margin.

Top DSG leaders are Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey, chairman; Richard Bolling, Missouri, member of the powerful Rules Committee and long credited with harboring speakership ambitions; Chet Holifield of California, chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee; John Blatnik of Minnesota, chairman of a government operations subcommittee; Morris Udall of Arizona, brother of the interior secretary.

FORMALLY, the five constitute the DSG executive committee. In effect, they are the liberals' "phantom" leaders of the House — speaker, floor leader, whips.

Nature and scope of the Democratic Study Group's carefully unpublicized organization and activities are disclosed in the following techniques:

A comprehensive and agressive "whip" system that gets out a maximum DSG vote on all important showdowns. Significantly, when 26 Democratic congressmen recently complained to regular party leaders about their balloting intentions being leaked to lobbyists, DSG members voiced no protest to their leaders. The latter have given assurances voting plans will be kept meticulously confidential.

Raising a large campaign chest for the re-election of DSG members, of whom more than 40 are first termers swept in by President Johnson's 1964 landslide victory. Chairman Thompson and Representative Bolling are conferring with the Committee on Political Education (COPE), political arm of the AFL-CIO, and the United Auto Workers on electioneering finances.

EXPANSION of the DSG research staff under John Morgan, director. To pay for that, members are being assessed $50 "annual dues." They are also being asked to allocate a small amount of their official clerk-hire for this purpose.

Cabinet members and other top officials are "invited" to brief DSG members on legislation and issues. Vice President Humphrey addressed the study group after his return from the Far East. Others who have done that are Secretary of State Rusk, Agriculture Secretary Freeman, HEW Secretary Gardner, and anti-poverty director Shriver. Some committee chairmen have complained to regular House leaders that these officials briefed the DSG before appearing before their committees.

New Novato Council Will Bring About Well-Rounded Thinking

The results of last Tuesday's election in Novato left many people puzzled. However, many more expressed their confidence that they had felt that former Mayor Babe Silva would win the race. He did, taking the top spot. In the election two years ago, he lost out to the team of William Jack Adams and Douglas Merrill, and J. Wayne Womack.

Many people expressed the thought that Tuesday's election was a vindication for Silva and his policies of keeping a close watch on city spending. Others said that it looked like a reversal of the public desire for more city spending which was the platform which Adams and Merrill ran on. They followed this through with an increase in taxes for the purchase of parks.

SILVA himself said he felt that his re-election was the people's reaction to the tax increase.

Still other people said it was the reaction of the people in the city to the smear campaign of two years ago against Silva which had put him out of office. Others said that it was a direct slap at the local paper which had opposed him two years ago, and still opposed him at this election.

Whatever it was, the composition of the new Novato council shows healthy balance between liberal and conservative thinking. With this balance, we look forward to some well-rounded programs during the next two years.

WITH THE ELECTION over, the signs tacked to the utility poles of various candidates are still in great evidence. We thought there was a law that such signs had to be taken down. We wonder how long we must look at them.

It is that time of year again when the prevailing westerly winds blow. They blow not only the clean fresh air in from the Pacific Ocean, they also blow the waste paper around.

Nowhere is this more true than the nicely landscaped islands in Highway 101. These islands now are showing the results of the city's careful grooming. The city has kept men working keeping down the weeds. The ice plant and other shrubs are really making a good showing.

THEN THE paper blows across from the service stations, the drive-in restaurants and the places that sell candy etc. without providing a place to put the discarded wrappers.

The city has an anti-litter law, but we do not know of any case where it has been enforced. It is easy to see what colored paper towels each service station uses because there is a belt of these towels in the center islands. It is long overdue for a voluntary campaign to keep these islands clean. If this fails, it is time for the city to step in and see to it that they are kept clean.

ONE OF THE signs of the increase in the value of real estate in Novato came a week or so ago with the return visit of a former real estate dealer in the city.

Al Randolph, who was a real estate dealer in the city for 15 years until he left in 1953, visited friends in the city. He now lives in Brownsville, north of Maryville. He told his friends that he had sold his H Lane Ranch 13 years ago for twice what he had paid for it. At that time, he thought he had made a good deal.

It didn't sound quite so good to him when he was told that the same ranch recently sold for triple the price he received for it. Real estate values in Novato have done nothing but go up and up and up.

Poor Logic To Condone Riots, Sell Materials To The Enemy

The inmates have taken over the madhouse, Bromidic, but how else do you describe an era in which permissiveness is carried to a reductio ad absurdum in the name of "free speech"?

When a college campus, sustained by public funds, is used for a knuckle-headed, foul-mouthed demonstration in which "students" run amuck and demonstrate only that they are not house-broken, you might expect the faculty to at least order the offenders to have their mouths washed in soap.

Well, guess again. What happens is that at least one nit-witted prof will defend the boys on the grounds of "academic freedom," and praise the whirling dervishes for proving they are "committed." That's the in-word now: Committed — and never mind to what.

THE RATHER OBVIOUS made-to-order retort would be that the delinquents ought to be committed — preferably to some place where attendants in white coats could keep watch on them—and thus they would stop giving a black eye to the other decent kids. But to gibe at the goings-on is to mark yourself as "anti-intellectual," for anything any professor says is intellectual.

In fact, if you can't cheer a demonstration of whatever sort, don't say anything lest you be accused of attempting to nullify the First Amendment, which preserves "the right of the people peaceably to assemble . . . for a redress of grievances."

If you argue that heaving Molotov cocktails — the sine qua non of most of our recent demonstrations — is not precisely peaceable, you only betray your ignorance of the Bill of Rights. Nothing in the famous First Article specifically bans the use of Molotov cocktails, and Article Ten spells it out that "the powers not delegated to the U.S. by the Constitution . . . are reserved to the States respectively or to the people."

Ergo, Molotov cocktails are perfectly legal. And two and two make six. Q. E. D.

THIS BRAND of logic has been adopted by the Whiz Kids presently building the Great Society. They are now pressing for a bill to insure truth in packaging, and another that will tell the installment buyer exactly what his purchase will ultimately cost him. That's pretty cool coming from a bunch of cats who offer the same old baloney as "porterhouse," and who gave us a three-day tax cut that turned out to cost far more than it gave. And if you think their estimates of what Medicare will eventually cost are even half accurate, five will get you 10.

Every speech LBJ makes assures us the free world is with us in the fight against Communist aggression. Canada, however, has just signed a record-breaking deal to sell wheat to Red China.

Speaking of that, here's a note signed A. J.: "You may have been a bit hasty in condemning the business firms of West Germany, Belgium, France and Switzerland for arranging to build a steel works for Mau. They may have thought they were following our lead.

"AT ANY RATE, the Dec. 5, 1965, issue of the N. Y. Times Magazine had an article entitled 'We Should Do More Business with the Communists.' That appeared even when Soviet, Czechoslovakian and Red Chinese weapons were being used against our troops, and was written by neither Senator Morse nor Fulbright but by Jay H. Cerf, international manager of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce."

A. J. has a point but, though I apologize to the foreign entrepreneurs, I do so with distinct reservations. Cerf's piece says "We"—meaning the U.S. —should do the business.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Information Wrong On Church Service

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Monday, Apirl 11, your newspaper published a brief account of the no-Easter sunrise service episode on Mount Tamalpais. Unfortunately the story was very inaccurate, and the writer obviously did not make a reasonable effort to ascertain the facts. Because some better-informed friends have expressed indignation to me about the article, and also because of the obvious public misunderstanding created, I am writing this in an effort to provide fuller information and, hopefully, to gain a measure of understanding.

The article's misinformation includes the following:

1. The sunrise service was not sponsored by the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley. The actual facts are too complicated to include here in total, but I personally was involved simply in an effort to maintain the Mount Tamalpais Easter sunrise tradition. As you may note by the enclosed program, the service was sponsored by the Marin County Council of Churches.

2. Mr. Donald Carroll, who was cited in your article as naming me as the responsible party, was not personally contacted by your reporter. I have put in time as a news reporter and editorial writer, and I must say that this kind of careless newswriting is deplorable and inexcusable. I was available on Monday and would gladly have provided all the information needed had I been asked. I am curious to know what might have motivated a reporter to avoid checking with the responsible person and then to submit a damaging story about him.

3. What was totally overlooked is the difficult position we were in on Saturday night. I did indeed make the final decision to cancel the service. But this was something that had to be done by Saturday night and we could not wait until Sunday morning to check the actual weather condition. Participants in the program had a right to be informed. The fact is that I most sincerely regretted having to make the decision to cancel. I sought competent advice and found an over-whelming opinion that the service should be cancelled. The official weather forecast, which we had, called for continued intermittent rains through Sunday. In spite of the I-J's prediction of clearing skies, our information proved to be correct, although we had to endure the frustrating circumstance of a brief early morning clearing of the skies. To say the least, the weather was whimsical!

You may be able to appreciate the additional frustration we feel for having invested time and some costs in preparing for what didn't happen—and also to realize that this has happened the past two years running.

I must say that I am personally sorry for the disappointment experienced by those who made their way up the mountain "in the gray dawn"—but don't you think the "tragedy" has been rather overplayed? At worst, a few of us have seemed to waste time. In the long run I believe the experience will prove helpful, including, hopefully, some kind of communication system whereby people can be informed of such late decisions. We did indicate in advance publicity that rain would bring cancellation. I trust we can work together another time for better results.

Marin Should Offer Jobs For Unemployed

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It is nice to hear that the Independent-Journal is concerned about the 50 per cent unemployment rate in Marin City.

This is a shockingly large percentage, but not really a very large number — probably not much over 100 able-bodied men of all ages. In our repeatedly-reported rich county, with its 20,000-plus business listings in the Yellow Pages of the phone book, there must be businesses who could hire these men soon!

Anyone having such a job available could call Miss Marjorie Ward, at the Civic Center, Department of Public Social Services.

Would the largest and most influential newspaper in Marin County start the ball rolling?

EARLY MARRIAGE TRENDS

Stresses On Wedded Bliss

First of a series of articles on the just ended weekend symposium on teen-age marriage and divorce at the University on California Medical Center, sponsored by the Continuing Education in Medicine and Health Sciences.

By BARBARA HOSMER

In a two day examination of the current situation of early marriage and divorce in America by authorities from throughout the U. S. the following points emerged:

—Never in history has marriage and the individual family had so many demands made upon it, and the wonder is that it holds up as well as it does—a tribute to today's Americans.

—Social conditioning, false romanticism and parental pressure push teen-agers toward marriage.

—That pregnancy should not be grounds for marriage unless a couple shows sufficient possibility for a workable, long-time relationship.

—Pre-marital counseling and family life education are desirable to backstop what the youngster is given by his family.

—That divorce, per se, is not a bad thing, and that a second marriage may be successful if a person has learned from his experience.

—The real tragedy in teen marriages is for their children. A person still a child himself does not make a good parent.

—That no generalities apply to all teen-agers. Some are quite mature, others will not be at age 30, but most do not mature until they are out of the teens.

THE FACTS ARE that some 40 per cent of today's brides are between 15 and 18 years old, and that half of marriages for this age group break up within five years. It has been estimated that the divorce rate among those who marry before age 18 is two to four times as high as for those who marry later.

This year in California more than half of the total population will be under 25 years of age, which means that early marriage and high divorce rates are of greater importance here.

Counselors, sociologists, psychologists and other authorities have put forth various theories, generally agreeing that we are now living in a new society which calls for some new institutional arrangements.

ONE OF THE MORE radical views is that of San Jose State College sociologist Mervyn L. Cadwallader, who finds fault with current expectation that marriage can meet all the needs demanded from it, needs it was not designed to meet.

"Marriage was not designed as a mechanism for providing friendship, exotic erotic experiences, romantic love, personal fulfillment, continuous lay psychotherapy, or recreation. The Western family was not designed to carry a lifelong load of romantic freight, and given its present structure it just has to fail when asked to do so. The record of divorce courts shows that something is wrong.

"The urban American middle class has inherited a marital institution that evolved over the centuries to meet some very specific needs of a non-industrial society—ascription of status, procreation, education, organization of labor and the distribution of property," Dr. Cadwallader said.

A new society such as ours must create new institutional arrangements, including new approaches to cohabitation between adults—"We need new kinds of marriage," he said.

CADWALLADER SAID that the end of today's marriages based on unrealistic sentiment is predictable: Either a lackluster stand-off, a bitter business carried for the children, church or neighbors; or separation and divorce.

"This then is followed by another search for "the right person" and nobody stops to think that the institution of marriage itself should be modified in some way," the sociologist stated.

Thus, he says, it's not teen-age marriage that is necessarily the problem, "it is the institution of marriage that has failed. And in the hands of teen-agers it becomes a travesty of an absurdity. Part of the problem is sex. Advertising, entertainment and fashion are all designed to produce and then exploit sexual tension. Consumption . . . has been sexualized and because love and dating have been so thoroughly sexualized they loom as critical problems for teen-agers," Dr. Cadwallader asserted.

PUSHED INTO EARLY dating that is supposed to be sexy but sexless, the teen-ager finds himself driven into a corner. The one way to legitimize his sex play and assuage the guilt is by planning marriage. Marriage looms as the solution to a host of problems social and sexual . . . it provides guilt-free sex and instant adulthood all in a simple ceremony."

Dr. Cadwallader describes the unhappy ending as neurotic sex legitimized by neurotic

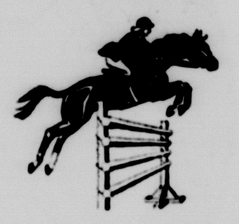
Tally-Ho? Fox-Less Hunting In Marin

By MOLLY MARIN



It will be hoofbeats on the Marin landscape this weekend when the Los Altos Hunt comes to Marin with a hunt set on the LaFranchi and Dolcini ranches in Nicasio on Saturday and in the slopes behind the Meadow Club on Sunday. The William McDevitts of San Rafael have made the arrangements and they will be hosts at a hunt breakfast at the Meadow Club afterward on Sunday. Saturday evening the hunters will gather at the Ark in Sausalito for a party. Marin hunters who will be participating will include Messrs. and Mesdames Harry Lehman, Niels Schultz Jr., William Weir and children from the Meadow Club's Hunt and Trail Club. The hunt will follow a scent that has been dragged over the course.

A NUMBER of large parties will go on the dinner-cruise which the Bel-Aire and Granada Units of the Reed Parent-Teachers Club are sponsoring Saturday. Ready to embark on the Harbor Queen at the dock in Tiburon will be Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, who have invited three couples to share the evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Waggoner who will be host to a party of ten. Mr. and Mrs. Miles T. McMillan will be accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Edward Pino, and the Messrs. and Mesdames John Malling, Virgil Hollis and Edwin Rogers. The Colin Grists have invited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tracy of Ross to join them on

Marin Branch Honors Two With Fellowship Grants

Mrs. R. J. Houston and Mrs. J. C. Stovall were honored by having fellowship grants named in their honor at yesterday's meeting of the Marin Branch, American Assn. of University Women at the PG&E Auditorium in San Rafael.

The Carol Houston National Grant will be given to an American student continuing her education at the doctorate level, and the Leona Stovall International Grant will aid a foreign student doing her graduate work in this country. Each grant is in the amount of $500. Another $1,600 is being contributed by the branch for undesignated endowments and some special California study grants. Most of these funds were raised at a one-day bazaar entitled "International Affair," held in February of this year, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Epstein.

Members of the name grant committee were Mrs. H. R. Friesen, chairman, and Mesdames Hugh Marchant, William Eastman and J. S. Detweiler; the last three have all received this honor in past years.

Mrs. Houston, a graduate of Doane College in Nebraska with a master's degree in English literature from University of Washington, has been active in community work as well as AAUW affairs. She served a term as president of Laurel Dell P-TA, and held various offices in the Camp Fire Girls. Music is one of her hobbies, and she was a charter member of the Marin Branch Sharps and Flats, a singing group.

Mrs. Stovall, originally from Vancouver, B.C., was graduated from Pacific University in Forest Grove, Ore., with a degree in sociology. In AAUW, in addition to serving two years as program chairman, she has been active in the Gourmet Section. She has also held offices in the Peter Pan Chapter of Children's Home Society.

'Let's Talk' Topic For P-TA Meet

A program of group discussions, "Let's Talk," between educator-specialists and parents, will be presented by Brookside School Parent-Teacher Assn., tomorrow at 8 p.m., in the school's multipurpose room, San Anselmo. Mrs. Charles E. Matheny is program chairman.

Discussion groups and leaders include: Mental and Physical Health, Dr. Frances Sink, guidance consultant, Mrs. Opal Torrance, school nurse; Remedial Measures, Mrs. Caryl Kurtzman, speech therapist, Mrs. Rita Goodman, remedial reading teacher; Academic Readiness, Miss Billie Warner, first grade teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Linderman, kindergarten teacher; Music Instruction, Dale Parker, Instrumental music instructor; High School Readiness, Miss Frances Parks, Drake High School student counselor and Jack A. Graves, Brookside School principal.

Marinites Among Group Committee

Mrs. Robert Barnecut of San Anselmo, president of Alpha Delta Pi Mother's Club of the University of California, is being assisted by Mrs. Roscoe Smith in completing plans for the club's annual parents' weekend to be held on April 23 and 24.

Festivities will begin with a luncheon-fashion show at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday at the chapter house in Berkeley. Among the students modeling will be Carol Smith and Nancy Barnecut of San Anselmo and Darcy Kelly of Kentfield.

MacPhail P-TA Presents Award

Mrs. Frank J. Feeley of Santa Venetia has been awarded an honorary life membership by the John MacPhail Parent-Teacher Assn. Mrs. Feeley has been librarian at the school for six years and has served as a board member both at John MacPhail and Santa Venetia Junior High School.

Robin Dinkelspiel Engaged To Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coleman Dinkelspiel of Kentfield are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Robin Rose, to Anthony Thomas Miller.

The bride-elect, who is the sister of Richard Dinkelspiel Jr., Joan and Anne Dinkelspiel of Kentfield and Mrs. Fritz Stern of Berkeley, was graduated from Redwood High School and the University of California where she was a member of Alpha Phi sorority. She has received her teacher's credential from San Francisco State College and teaches in Fairfax. She is also a member of The Spinsters of San Francisco. The late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dinkelspiel of Suisun and the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cutter of San Francisco are her grandparents.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto N. Miller of San Francisco, was graduated from Stanford University and is attending Hastings College of Law. Mrs. Paul W. Vestal Jr. of San Francisco is his sister.

No date has been set for the wedding.

A SABERED VEIL?

Many Major Problems Are Solved With A Little Growing-Up Time

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

DEAR HELEN: My mother won't let me talk more than 20 minutes on the phone . . . DEAR HELEN: I'm 14 and still can't car-date! . . . DEAR HELEN: If I say goodbye for more than five minutes on the front porch, my Dad opens the door and invites the boy in. What's worse, he turns on the porch light . . . DEAR HELEN: They won't let me wear nylons and mascara to school. How prehistoric can parents get? . . . DEAR HELEN: Mom says if I don't cut my bangs to stubs (above the eyebrows, even), she'll take away my allowance . . . DEAR HELEN: Dishwater splits my fingernails but my Dad just won't understand . . .

DEAR KIDS: Major problems? They may seem so to you, but every one of them can be solved with patience, compromise and, most of all, a little growing-up time. Your parents aren't that lucky, and I'll give you some examples:

DEAR HELEN:

My father has built a box around the telephone and he locks it whenever he goes to work. Even my mother can't answer calls because he says anybody calling her is just an old gossip anyway. But mostly it's to keep me from getting calls from boys, which I wouldn't probably. He answers every phone call and asks who it is and what they want, and then usually he slams down the receiver, unless it's for him.

He says I can't date until I'm ready for marriage, but how do you know you're ready unless you can talk to boys? If one even nods to me at church I get a big lecture on how evil men are. —SIXTEEN

DEAR SIXTEEN:

If I were your mother I'd pry that locked telephone box off the wall and unlock this man's closed mind with a few ultimatums, the first one being, "Let's talk this over with our minister —or else!" —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother never tells me what to do or when to come home or how to act. I've raised myself since I can remember, because my mother has never been sober since I can remember. I clean the house and she comes home drunk and messes it up, throwing her clothes everywhere, and breaking things. Once I told a man she brought home to leave and she threw a bottle at me. Outside of running away, is there anything I can do? —LONER

DEAR LONER:

Call Alcoholics Anonymous. It's listed in your phone book. Your mother may not be ready for their help, but you, at least, can join Alateen, which I understand is active in your city. It's a group of young people whose purpose is to change what they can and learn to live with the rest. You'll find a lot of solace and a great deal of encouragement here. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

For every minute I am late coming home, I have to stay home that many days, even if I have a good excuse, or call. I can only take the family car out for one hour every two weeks. I'm 18, almost a man. Why am I treated like a baby? I'm enlisting! —DON

DEAR DON:

You'll find about the same kind of restrictions in the Army, but it isn't called "babying." Good luck! —H.

Eastern Star Officials Visit Set Tomorrow

Lillian Feder of Mill Valley's Chapter 219, Order of the Eastern Star, and deputy grand matron of the 10th district, announces that the four Marin chapters are making plans to be present for the official visit tomorrow to the district of the worthy grand matron and worthy grand patron.

The official visit to the district comprising eight chapters of Marian E. Schwach of Los Angeles and Edward Mancuso of San Francisco will take place at 8 p.m. at the War Memorial Building in Petaluma.

Past matrons of the Mill Valley chapter taking a leading part will be Susan Grube, who is general chairman for the event, and Barbara Kramer, co-chairman for refreshments.

Section To Visit Botanical Garden

A special event for the Garden Section of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley will be a luncheon Thursday followed by a visit to the Edgewood Botanical Garden of Mill Valley.

Members will meet at the clubhouse at noon and drive to the home of Mrs. J. Paul Hurd in Mill Valley for luncheon. Mrs. John Geary, the owner, will give a lecture on the garden.

CROWNS OF GOLD as displayed by Mrs. John Gould, right, will decorate the Marin Country Club in Novato on April 28 when the five Marin Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority mark the 35th anniversary of the organization's founding. Working on the event are, from left, Mesdames Lyle Vincent, Chester Pec and Jack Whitcomb.

'Crown Every Moment' Theme Of Beta Sigma Phi Birthday

The five Marin County chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will celebrate the 35th anniversary of the organization's founding at 6:30 p.m., April 28 at a banquet to be held at Marin Country Club in Novato.

The first chapter of the sorority was formed in Abilene, Kan. There are now 8,000 chapters and 185,000 members in 15 countries.

Marin chapters observing the anniversary are Gamma Omicron, San Rafael; Omicron Alpha, Mill Valley; Upsilon Gamma, Novato; Xi Alpha XI, San Rafael and Xi Kappa Psi, Novato.

Decorations will be crowns of gold on velvet pillows in keeping with the international theme for the current year "Crown Every Moment" when 23 members receive their ritual of jewels degree.

MRS. CHESTER PEC, president of Marin Inter-City Council and a member of Xi Alpha Xi will be master of ceremonies. Mrs. Gene Rexrode of Gamma Omicron will give the invocation; Mrs. Leo Benelli, Xi Kappa Psi, the welcome to new members; Mrs. Robert Haluska, Omicron Alpha, founders day pledge and Mrs. Paul Fry, Upsilon Gamma, will present the message from Walter Ross, the sorority's founder.

Conducting the ritual of jewels ceremony will be Mrs. Pec, assisted by Mrs. Don Aspey, Gamma Omicron; Mrs. Fry, Mrs. Donald Mindham, Omicron Alpha and Mrs. Gavin Pelling, Xi Kappa Psi.

Pledges receiving degrees will be Mesdames George Anastasi, Lyle Vincent, Ronald Konkle, Robert McDonald, Stephen Pinson, Toni Ryan, Stephen Whittemore, and Joseph Doctor of Gamma Omicron Chapter; Mesdames Kenneth McKay, Raymond Ballah, Gordon Hellwig Jr., George Kipgen, Richard Mattos, Daniel Nelson, and Misses Marilyn Beccio, Rosalind Borba and Jari Fowler of Omicron Alpha and Mesdames John Church, Martin Dean and Jack Whitcomb, member of Upsilon Gamma.

MESDAMES Theron Newell and Raymond Johnson of Novato and Peter Regalia, sponsor of Xi Alpha Xi of San Rafael, will judge the scrapbooks that each chapter keeps during the year. Mrs. Fry will present the awards.

Announcement will also be made for "Girl of the Year Award" for each chapter.

Chairman for the anniversary event is Mrs. Bill Bayles of Upsilon Gamma. The various chapters that have been given an assignment are Gamma Omicron, programs; Xi Kappa Psi, decorations and favors; Xi Alpha Xi, publicity; Omicron Alpha, reservations and Upsilon Gamma, awards.

the bay cruise which will steam to The Galleon Restaurant in Alameda where the 250 guests will dine.

A NOVEL HOBO party was held at the Bel-Marin Keys home of the Douglas Joslins on Saturday night. Invitations were extended on newsprint using red ink. The party which started with cocktails and hobo stew later from tin cans featured a "King of the Road" theme. The Joslins had done much to convert their attractive waterfront home to a hobo jungle setting with newspaper table cloths, and flowers made out of newspapers.

THE MARIN County Board of Supervisors were entertained at luncheon on Tuesday at the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum. Mrs. Robert McInnis of the Northbridge Guild was in charge of arrangements. Assisting her were Mesdames Robert Bohlen, Harold Curtis, Herbert Meyers and Ron Swanson.

INTERRUPTING A leisurely Saturday afternoon sail in their Bear boat, Bandersnatch, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Holm of Belvedere participated in a dramatic rescue in Belvedere Cove. A small runabout caught fire in the harbor. Quick-thinking Bobby Holm, a Belvedere volunteer fireman, grabbed a foam-type extinguisher, maneuvered the Bandersnatch close to the small craft and quickly doused the flames. The rescue with a happy ending caused a lot of excited conversation among Holm's fellow members of the San Francisco Yacht Club, who watched.

Lu Sutton's P-TA President Enjoys Sports Of All Kinds

The new president of the Lu Sutton School Parent-Teacher Assn. of Novato will be devoting a great many hours to the Novato Unified School District this year.

Robert E. Vaughan, a fifth grade teacher at Meadow Park School has been a member of the Lu Sutton P-TA for only the past year, but his enthusiasm for school work has placed him as the head of the organization.

Bob and his wife, Bernice, a third grade teacher at Nova Albion School in the Dixie School District, have two sons, Brad, 13, and Brian, 10 years of age. They came to Marin County two years ago from Grand Rapids, Mich., where both Bob and Bernice were teachers.

ROBERT VAUGHAN

Since coming to Novato, Bob has been working for his master's degree in education at San Francisco State College where he will receive his degree in June. He attended Aquinas College in Grand Rapids and received his bachelor of science degree at Central Michigan University. He worked his way through college but also took time to be vice president of the Tau Alpha Upsilon fraternity.

Bob did not go into teaching until five years ago. Before that time he was a salesman. While working in sales, he was with the Southwest Lumber Mills on the Fort Apache Indian reservation in Arizona for a time. During that time he was editor and publisher of the trade publication for the mills and was a commander of the Legion post. He is also past president of an investment club in Grand Rapids.

During World War II, Bob was in the Naval Air Force for more than three years. He has been a member of the Elks Club in Grand Rapids for 18 years and at the present time is working with the Boy Scouts in Novato and is a member of the St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato.

Hobbies of the new president include movies, fishing, boating, and sports of all kinds. He also dons an apron as an outdoor cook—among his specialties, barbecued chicken with capers.

The main fund raising project for Lu Sutton P-TA for the next school year will be a carnival.

Elected to serve with Vaughan is a predominately male board including Mrs. Douglas Merrill, first vice president; Alfred Rivasplata, second vice president; Mrs. Harry Magill, secretary; Jorgen Nielsen, treasurer, and Charles Simmons, auditor.

Marinite Named Dinner Chairman

Mrs. Jean Brown of Greenbrae has been appointed chairman for a dinner to be held on April 27 when the Mrs. Walter H. Glynn of West Des Moine, Iowa, makes her official visit to the Northern California Units of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ruth L. Johnson of San Anselmo is reservations chairman for the event to be held April 25 through 27 at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley. Mrs. Earlene Wilf of Ross is co-chairman and music for the dinner will be given by Mrs. Hazel Jones of San Rafael.

marriage; and "clutching their illusions, young girls with ecstatic screams of joy, lead their awkward brooding boys through the portals of the church into the land of the Mustang, Apartment 24, the local emporiums and drive-in. They then become adults in good standing with the adult world. In time the happy couple will have their day in court, the divorce court. Their search is over. They have found adulthood."

THEY HAVE PASSED what Dr. Cadwallader terms the domesticity test into the adult world, often he says, paradoxically to escape the authority over them by adults.

Bake Sale Saturday

A bake sale of homemade cakes, pastries and cookies, baked by the women of the Liahona Circle of The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Novato, will be held at Lee Brothers Market in Marinwood beginning at 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Sally Boss Engaged To Wed John Regli

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Charles Boss of Kent Woodlands are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Sally Kathleen, to John Thomas Regli of Ferndale.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antone J. Regli of Ferndale, is a senior at California State Polytechnic College. He is the brother of Philip, Joseph and Eileen Regli of Ferndale and Mrs. Richard Cahill of Westwood.

No date has been set for the wedding.

MUSIC DOES THE TRICK

Buffy Ford appears not to be taking the serenade of Mikel Taxer seriously in this scene from "My Mother, My Father and Me," a play by Lillian Hellman which takes few things seriously. It receives its West Coast premiere at the Festival Theater, San Anselmo, Friday when the curtain rises at 8:30 p.m. on the first of three previews scheduled for this weekend. The production begins its regular run April 29 with performances at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays.

Final Concert By Youngsters Set At College

The Marin Youth Orchestra and the Workshop for Strings sponsored by the Symphony Guild of Marin will present the final concert of the season at 7:30 p.m. May 1 at the College of Marin gymnasium.

The two orchestras, composed of high school and elementary music students from schools throughout the county, are directed by Hugo Rinaldi and Lucien Mitchell.

Soloists for the concert will be violinist Eden Vaning, a senior at San Rafael High School, playing the Bruch Violin Concerto in G Minor, and pianist Joan Franzini, eighth grade student at Blessed Sacrament Parochial School, playing Mozart's Piano Concerto in B Flat.

The concert will also include works by Gabrieli, Bach, Dvorak and Smetana.

Auditions for next year's orchestra and soloists will be the week of May 9-16, by appointment with Mrs. Herbert P. Brann, guild chairman for the youth orchestra.

Cast Complete

Casting has been completed for "Hollywood for Reel," the next production of the Novato Community Club, which goes on the boards May 27-28 and June 3-4 at the Novato Community House.

More than 50 persons are in the cast and staff of the revue, directed by Lee Mann and produced by Joseph Jacob.

San Quentin Prisoners Try Hand At Making Own Movie

San Quentin Prison—backdrop for many low-budget Hollywood movies in the past—is now about to tell its own true story from the inside.

A group of inmates have become film-makers and are getting the loan of equipment and expert tuition from a San Francisco television station.

Already a nine-man committee is putting the finishing touches to a 10-minute film about the Inmate Advisory Council. But the committee's ultimate ambition is to complete a full-length documentary film on all aspects of prison life and to show it to reception-guidance centers and other interested organizations.

Guiding light behind the project is Richard Queirolo Sr., of Mill Valley, a professional news cameraman, who responded with advice and cameras when inmates began showing an interest in movie making.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today: "This must be something of a pioneer venture in the California prison system."

San Rafael High School Concert Set

The San Rafael High School Orchestra will present its annual spring concert Sunday at 3 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, San Rafael.

The 64-member orchestra will be directed by Hugo Rinaldi, director of music for San Rafael city schools.

The orchestra will perform Schubert's Third Symphony, the overture from "If I Were King," by Addison Adam, selections from "Sound of Music," and the Spanish Suite by Frederic Curzon.

The high school string quartet, composed of Eden Vaning, Debra Roberts, Karen Armington, and Margaret Clarke, will perform Dvorak's String Quartet, Opus 95. Buddy Oakley and Cindy Jobse will perform the Largo by Veracini.

A reception for parents will follow the program.

Oscar Winner Has Loyal Fan

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — If Oscars went to movie fans, Mrs. Myra Franklin would be a certain winner. Today she sees "The Sound of Music" for the 500th time.

After the first 55 visits, the management gave her a pass.

She knows the script by heart but says: "I'm never bored. I see something new in it each time — and my ambition is to see it a thousand times."

Children's Books Author To Speak

Mrs. Zilpha Keatley Snyder of 21 Hawthorne Drive, Larkspur, author of children's books, will speak about writing books to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students at San Clemente School in the Larkspur School District tomorrow at 9 a.m. in the school library.

Mrs. Snyder, whose appearance marks the celebration of national library week at the school, has written "Season of Ponies," "The Velvet Room" and "Black and Blue Magic."

Mrs. Snyder spoke today to pupils at Henry C. Hall School, which her two children attend. Next week she will appear at Larkspur-Corte Madera and Neil Cummins, the other two schools in the district.

Talent Program Set By Teeners In Marin City

Marin City teen-agers, ages 12 through 14, will present a talent show at 8 p.m. Friday in the Community Center Lounge.

Proceeds will be used to help buy supplies for the temporary recreation building and to help finance field trips this summer, sponsored by the Community Relations Service.

Young persons wishing to enter the show are invited to get in touch with either Mrs. Beatrice Duke or Mrs. Doretha Mitchell, both representing the sponsoring Community Relations Service, Mrs. Duke said.

Mrs. Duke said there are 35 youngsters in the teen-age organization which meets each Thursday at 8 p.m. in the lounge and sponsors a dance twice a month. There is also a senior teen-age group for youngsters 15 to 21.

THE OSCARS

Julie Christie, Marvin Are Tops

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Britain's Julie Christie, rugged Lee Marvin and "The Sound of Music" won the top Oscars—with the President's daughter Lynda Bird Johnson a guest star in the audience.

The blonde Miss Christie was honored at last night's 38th annual Academy Awards as an English model who sleeps her way to success with a succession of high and low society figures in "Darling."

Hands to face, sobbing but gleeful, she gasped: "I don't know what to say except to thank everyone concerned — especially my darling John Schlesinger (the director) for this wonderful picture."

"Half of this (Oscar) belongs to a horse someplace out in the valley" — a reference to the dilapidated nag he rode in the Western film.

It was one of the hardest-to-predict Oscar races in years. Much sentiment favored Rod Steiger as "The Pawnbroker." There were predictions that "Ship of Fools" or "Doctor Zhivago" would win as best picture. One of the closest contests was between two Julies, good friends.

Julie Andrews — who didn't win for "The Sound of Music" — did accept an Oscar for its director, Robert Wise, now at work on another picture in Hong Kong.

The brilliantly melodic "Sound of Music" — in which Miss Andrews was again nominated for her role as a governess as when she won in "Mary Poppins" a year ago — won the best picture award.

The award for best performance by an actor in a supporting role went to Martin Balsam in "A Thousand Clowns." He played a "square" business success, the older brother of happy-go-lucky Jason Robards.

Best performance by an actress in a supporting role: Shelley Winters brutal mother of a blind girl in "A Patch of Blue."

It was Miss Winters' second supporting-actress Oscar — the first such twin victory for any actress. She won in 1959 as a dowdy Dutch housewife in "The Diary of Anne Frank."

One of the loudest ovations was for Lynda Bird Johnson 22, escorted by actor George Hamilton, 26. She was in a brown fur jacket over an orange dress; he, tanned and smiling, in white tie and tails.

Hamilton, with Patty Duke, presented the Oscar for the best achievement in sound to "The Sound of Music."

That film and "Doctor Zhivago" each won five awards. "The Sound of Music" is the sixth musical in the Awards' 38-yera history to win the best-picture Oscar.

"George Hamilton is here with a beautifully feathered friend, Lynda Bird Johnson. If he plays his cards right he may be the second Hamilton in the White House.

Hope himself received an honor — a gold medal, the first ever awarded by the academy, bearing a miniature replica of the Oscar. It was for his "Unique and distinguished service" to the industry and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Best foreign language film: "The Shop on Main Street," made behind the Iron Curtain in Czechoslovakia.

Best screen play based on material from another medium: "Doctor Zhivago," by Robert Bolt.

New Clues Found In Coed Murder

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A three-inch human bone and pieces of flimsy fabric were found yesterday in a ravine where the partial skelton of Judy Williamson was discovered two weeks ago.

The bone and fragments of cloth, believed to be part of Miss Williamson's remains, were being analyzed by Dr. Paul Kirk, University of California criminologist.

WAS IT DRAKE'S?

Ship Relic Found At Drake' Bay

By FRANK FARRARA

A Spanish exploring ship which broke up on the shores of Drake's Bay in 1595 may be the source of a ship's fixture which was unearthed in 1939.

This theory has been advanced by Glen Dines, a Fairfax author, who said it has been established that the ship, the San Augustine, was smashed up in the bay by a storm.

It has never been established that Sir Francis Drake landed at Drake's Bay, Dines said.

When the fixture, known as a "deadeye," was displayed at the Marin County Historical Society early this month, there was speculation that it came from Drake's ship in 1579.

Mrs. Edyth E. Hulbert of Cloverdale, whose late husband unearthed the fixture while farming on the Leland Murphy ranch at Drake's Bay, believes that it could have come from Drake's ship.

Parker F. Wood, museum curator, said he plans to have the Bancroft Library at University of California analyze the deadeye to determine its age.

Dines said Sebastian Cermenho, commissioned by the Spanish government to explore and chart harbors in California, entered Drake's Bay and established a camp.

Cermenho and his crew started to build a launch after establishing a camp, and "a storm came up and drove his boat ashore at Drake's Bay," Dines said. "This was established by his log."

Ten or 12 years later the pilot of the San Augustine was in another expedition along the coast "and confirmed Drake's Bay as the place where the San Augustine was wrecked," Dines said.

Cermanho had been commissioned to find harbors for treasure galleons from the Philippines, Dines said. He skirted the coastline and sighted Mendocino before putting in at the bay.

The deadeye was pulley-like fitting fixed to a ship's hull to enable the shrouds or lines which ran to the masts and sails to be tightened.

Wood said it was a standard piece of equipment on sailing vessels for 300 or 400 years. "My grandfather used them in 1840-50 off the coast of Maine," he said. "This could have been a part of any sailing vessel."

Wood said the deadeye is still on exhibit at the museum and he does not plan to sent it away for age analysis until after the next meeting of society directors on May 13.

ENOUGH TO CURL YOUR HAIR

County Urged To Draft Version Of 'Kirk Law'

The legislative committee of the Marin County Board of Education urged last night that Marin County supervisors consider implementing the "Kirk Law."

The law, initiated by William H. Kirk of Novato, enables cities and counties to require large subdividers to provide school sites at their cost to the subdivider.

The committee recommended that the board of education pass a resolution for action on the Kirk Law" at its next meeting, May 2, and forward it to supervisors.

William G. Vanasen, director of business services, noted that "The People's Schools" column in the Independent-Journal April 11 pointed out that no action had been taken on the law in Marin County.

The legislative committee also recommended support for legislation which would reduce the burden on local taxpayers in regard to school financing.

It authorized a letter to Gov. Edmund G. Brown urging that $150,000 be appropriated for the 1966-67 school year to reimburse teachers at the rate of $50 a unit if they take summer studies to enter the field of special education.

Committee members also recommended a resolution that the intent of the state law that statewide test results not be divulged should be followed.

The education services committee recommended that four consultants from local school districts be employed to prepare a publication to be used as a teaching aid in foreign language programs.

Recommended were George Duncan, College of Marin; Flora Flores, Reed School District; Mrs. Claire Molenkamp, Novato Unified School District, and Mrs. Thelma Tabor, San Rafael City Schools.

Consultants would be paid $50 a day, but the total cost would not exceed $1,000, reported Lawrence Lindberg, director of instruction.

County Gets Support In Zone Case

Visiting Judge Richard H. Chamberlain of Alameda County has sustained a demurrer by the County of Marin in Marin Superior Court that a suit attacking its planned community zoning ordinance is 'uncertain" and vague.

Specifically, the demurrer—filed by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney on March 15—declared that the plaintiff's action failed to show how his property would be affected by the acts complained of because the size, nature and present use of that property was not set forth in the complaint.

The plaintiffs now must amend the complaint to meet those requirements, if they pursue it, Judge Chamberlain ordered.

The suit challenges the legality of planned community zoning by the county. It asks that the planned community zoning portion of Marin County Code be declared unconstitutional and illegal. It was filed by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Van Der Male and Mr. and Mrs. Hal McIntyre, whose homes are in the Wolfback Ridge area near the proposed Marincello community.

Federal Reserve Talk

Wilson Fraker of Mill Valley will speak on the Federal Reserve System at a meeting of the Marin Coin Club at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

Corte Madera Fails To Get A Quorum

The Corte Madera Town Council failed to get a quorum for a meeting scheduled last night and all items were held over for the new council to deal with after being seated at 7:30 p.m. today in the recreation room of the public safety building.

Absent last night were councilman William W. Collier and lame duck councilmen Norman R. Barnett and Albert E. Kogler. Replacing the latter two on the council tonight will be Holmes S. (Pete) Norville and Harold B. Wagstaff.

The new council will be asked to approve a beautification program for the town and file an application for a federal urban beautification grant to pay half the $160,000 cost of the program.

It will also consider a petition from 44 residents along Corte Madera Avenue asking for more traffic patrols during rush hours, and will be asked to set a date for considering the town employee salary schedule for fiscal 1967.

Ex-G.M. Officials To Give Speech

Jack Wolfram, former vice president of General Motors Corp., will speak on "The Individual in a Changing Society" at a luncheon meeting of businessmen sponsored by the Marin Museum Assn., May 4 at the Peacock Gap Country Club.

Sausalito Traffic Discussion Scheduled

Problems concerning Bridgeway traffic along the county area of roadway near the American Distillery will be discussed by the Sausalito City Council at an 8 o'clock meeting today.

The council will also canvass ballots from last week's city council election and elect a new mayor and vice mayor.

Helicopter President Arraigned

Robert L. (Pete) Peterson, president of American Helicopters Corp., was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a felony complaint of illegal sales of company stock. Judge Peter Allen Smith then released him on his own recognizance pending plea entry at 1:30 p.m. April 28.

A co-defendant, Harold French of Terra Linda, firm secretary, has not appeared in court for arraignment. A warrant for his arrest was issued Friday and bail set at $1,100.

Peterson, of Ross, said he heard of the charge and surrendered himself voluntarily. Both men are accused of selling about $13,000 worth of stock at $10 a share to seven Marin County residents without having a permit from the state corporations commisisoner.

They first operated a helicopter pilot training school near Novato, but have moved operations to the old Sonoma County Airport at Schellville.

New Tiburon Council

The Tiburon City Council will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Del Mar School to canvass the votes, seat three new councilmen and elect a mayor and mayor pro-tempore. New council members are Thomas E. Drohan, William R. Bremer and Branwell D. Fanning, top vote-getters in an eight-candidate field.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Reagan Will Open Offices In Marin

Actor Ronald Reagan, candidate for Republican nomination for governor, will drive into San Rafael's downtown Thursday afternoon to formally open his county headquarters at 1417 Fourth Street, between D and E Streets.

Reagan is expected in town from about 2 to 2:30 p.m.

Paul R. Hearle, Marin chairman for Reagan, announced free refreshments will be served at the headquarters. Thomas C. Reed of Ross, Reagan's Northern California chairman, will accompany the actor.

From San Rafael, Reagan plans to leave for Santa Rosa to open his headquarters in Sonoma County.

DRATH PARTY

A Phil Drath fund-raising party and dance will be held Saturday at 9 p.m. at the Terra Linda home of Bertram S. Koel, 855 Penny Royal Lane.

Drath, a worker for peace and civil rights, is seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress.

DOWNING HQ.

Lynes E. Downing, who is trying to unseat County Supervisor William Gnoss in the Fifth District, will open campaign headquarters Thursday at 7 p.m. at 957 Front Street, Novato.

Chet Lowney, campaign chairman for Downing, announced the headquarters will be open daily thereafter from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. top rovide bumper stickers and literature.

Girl Hurts Knee In Motorcycle Mishap On Drake

An 18-year-old Kentfield girl suffered a scraped knee when she was struck by a pickup truck while she was a passenger on a motorcycle on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, east of Tocaloma Road, at 8:40 a.m. Saturday.

Injured was Carol J. Duncan of 14 Acacia Avenue, who was riding on a motorcycle driven by Richard W. Vacha, 19, of 70 Crane Drive, San Anselmo, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Vacha was westbound when an eastbound pickup truck driven by Robert O. Weiss, 33, of Point Reyest Station started to make a letf turn and struck Carol's knee, the patrol reported. She was treated at Marin General Hospital, where Vacha was examined for a bruised thumb.

Almonte Club To Have Europe, Hawaii Films

Films on Europe and Hawaii will be shown at the Almonte Improvement Club for Almonte and Homestead Valley residents at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

PERSONNEL BOARD POWERS ARGUED

Supervisors Agree To Restore Some Duties Now In Administrator's Ken

Marin County Supervisors had some second thoughts today about extension of personnel powers they gave the county administrator last December, agreeing some of the powers should be restored to the personnel commission.

Commissioner E. R. Lang said that his two years on the commission, except for a couple of hearings on appeals by employees from disciplinary action, have "been a waste of time."

To some proposals for strengthening the commission, however, County Administrator Alan Bruce pointed out obstacles in county ordinances.

Chairman Byron W. Leydecker said he did not want the commission involved in appointing department heads. Supervisor William A. Gnoss differed, saying he would like to see it directly involved in that process.

But Bruce noted that the ordinance establishing the commission, adopted 15 years ago, specifically excluded department heads from its consideration.

Gnoss said the commission should be involved in policy decisions on salaries. Bruce said it had no concern with salaries under the ordinance.

Selinger said a board policy adopted in 1962 probably gave the commission enough powers, but these had been eroded away. Too much now is handled by the administrator, he declared.

Last December, he complained, responsibility for developing rules, regulations and policies was turned over to the administrator, along with that for drawing up grievance procedures.

Jail Fracas Hospitalizes One Inmate

A 22-year-old county jail inmate, apparently kicked in the head during a scuffle with another prisoner yesterday evening, was in San Rafael General Hospital today for treatment of a cut forehead, a swollen ear, and possible concussion.

His condition, however, was reported "good" today and he is expected to be returned to the jail tomorrow.

Sheriff's officers said George D. Beauchamp Jr., serving a six-months sentence for petty theft, was believed to have been wrestling with another inmate following an argument over use of the jail's pay telephone.

He had just left the mess hall about 5:15 p.m., jailers said. The fracas occurred in the corridor or as he entered a cell.

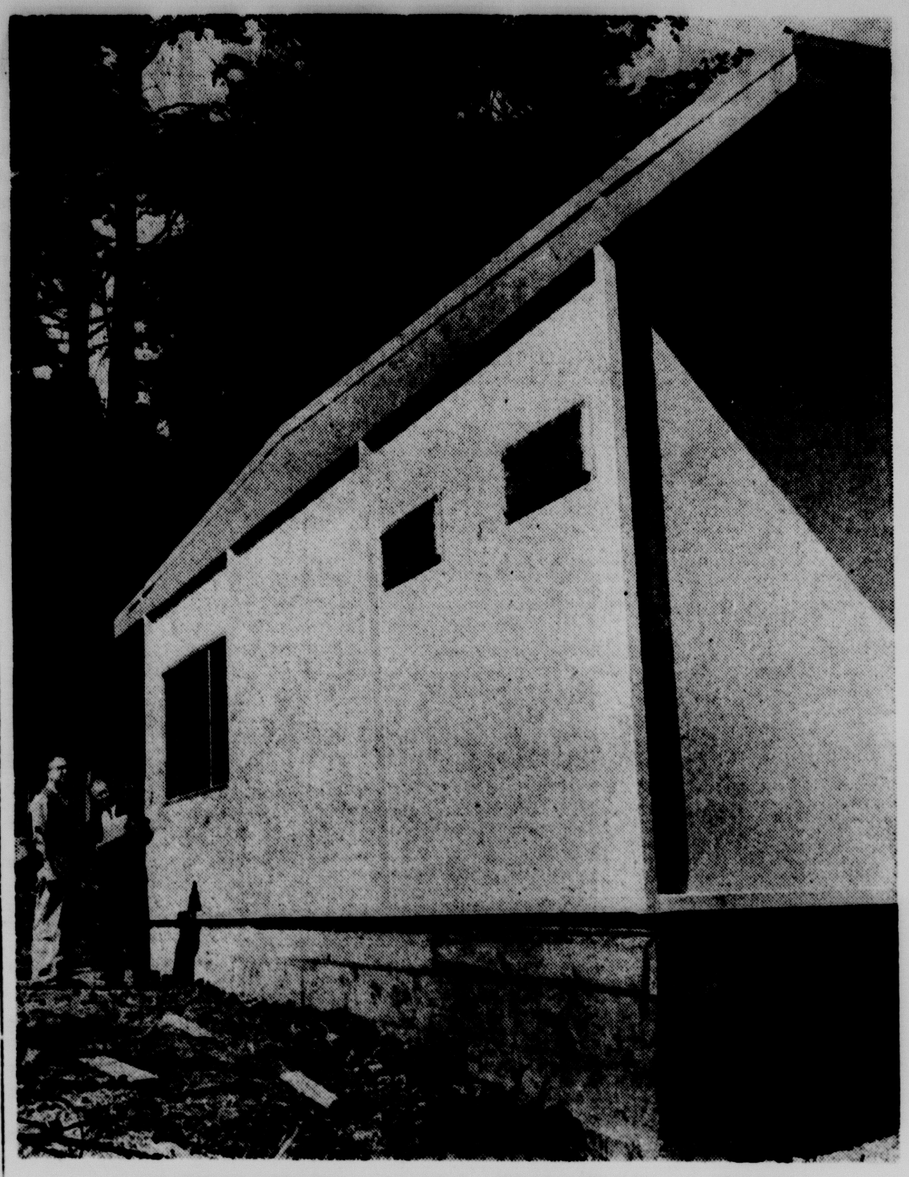
Newall Snyder, chief jailer, said Beauchamp, of 865 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, may have been kicked by a third person.

Beauchamp took a coin and stamp collection from his father, CM/Sgt. George D. Beauchamp Sr., 48, of 542 Bolling Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, in December. He pleaded guilty Jan. 31.

Filipinos Organize Viet Mercy Mission

MANILA (UPI) —Forty-two Philippine civic organizations today formally launched a project to send a privately financed Filipino medical team to South Viet Nam.

The project, called "Operation World Freedom," is aimed at raising $62,500 needed to finance the 12-member medical team for one year in Viet Nam.



RECREATION HALL BUILT IN A DAY

This portable building, to be Marin City's new recreation hall, was delivered and erected yesterday afternoon by Modulux Corp. It was being put up even while the county board of supervisors approved the lease already signed by County Administrator Alan Bruce and the site preparation already done by the county public works department (see story on Page 1). Looking it over are William R. Sullivan (left), county building maintenance foreman, and Robert W. Figone, district representative of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. (Independent-Journal photo)

Hub Park Plan Speedup Sought

San Anselmo Park and Recreation Commisison last night decided the master plan for the 62-acre Sorich Ranch area cannot be held up until the city council approves a budget for fiscal 1967.

Commisisoners voted to ask the council tonight for a special $1,000 appropriation to finance drawing a plan for the area. Planning should begin immediatly, said Andrew J. Snyder Jr., park and recreation director.

Snyder also told commissioners that the executive committee of the San Anselmo American Legion post has suggested that as soon as funds are available, an appraisal be made of the Legion Log Cabin, sought by the city for inclusion in memorial park.

Commisisoner Nelson King was absent.

Sausalito Schools Due Study

Sausalito Citizens Council board agreed last night to undertake a "very thorough study" into the Sausalito school situation, including a report of a marked increase in pupils being sent to private schools.

The board also agreed to urge the Sausalito School District board to forthwith appoint Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato to the post of superintendent.

Citizens council directors, reported Carl W. Spring, corresponding secretary, will also make a study of how Sausalito pupils are doing in relation to national academic standards.

The board feels that Amato is already experienced in the district's problems and has demonstrated an awareness of fiscal responsibility, Spring said. "We do not feel that the district should be subjected to the 'costs' of having to get a completely unfamiliar person grounded here."

Supt. Charles Lavaroni has submitted his resignation effective June 30.

The board appointed Theodore Boutmy, an architect, as a director. He replaces Glenn T. Hall.

The board, will tell the city council that it does not favor city use of the county planning staff on a fee basis, Spring reported.

Council directors will suggest to the bay conservation and development commission that the Sausalito waterfront be confined to water-oriented activities rather than purely residential and convention hotels. This suggestion relates to an impending application by Sausalito Properties Inc. to the commission for a proposed new development in the Napa-Litho streets area along Bridgeway, said Spring.

STATE AIDE DAMPENS HOPES FOR OVERPASS

Alan S. Hart, district engineer for the State Division of Highways, has told the Marin County Board of Supervisors that there is no chance of state construction of a pedestrian overpass at Strawberry Drive and Tiburon Boulevard, where Robert Carl Scholz, 8, was killed by a car March 21.

Hart, responding to a request from supervisors, said there "are thousands of such intersections" and building overpasses on all of them would be "impossible financially."

Hart said crossing markers will be painted yellow, the westerly crossing will be removed as recommended by supervisors, and an all-red signal interval to stop left and right turn traffic to allow pedestrian crossing will be considered, as well as the possibility of lowering the speed limit.

San Geronimo Valley Assn. Re-Elects All Officers

Jean A. Bevans of Forest Knolls was re-elected president of the San Geronimo Valley Assn. last night.

Also re-elected were vice-president Sam Rouder; corresponding secretary Louise L. Wood, recording secretary Stanley R. Frederick and treasurer Mary Furdas.

Only persons to be newly elected were three at-large directors: Mrs. Winifred Frederick, Mrs. Helen Pederson and Mrs. Violet Rouder. Two other directors, Mrs. Maude Gardner and Mrs. Marie Ringer, were re-elected.

Members agreed to call a mass meeting of valley residents next month to discuss the expected county tax increase and other problems. The date, however, was not set, according to director Grace Zanolini.

Mrs. Zanolini said the meeting also will be an effort to stimulate valley residents into signing up for natural gas by the June 1 deadline. Only 301 persons — about 47 per cent of the needed 640—have signed up and paid a $50 deposit so far.

About 50 persons attended last night's session.

Larkspur Council Meet To Canvass Election

Larkspur City Council will meet at 8 p.m. today in City Hall to canvass election results, seat one new councilman and one returning councilman and elect a mayor and vice mayor to serve during the current year.

Alfred Malvino is the new councilman, replacing Robert J. Smith, who did not run. Mayor Neil R. Brixon is the returning councilman.

The horse was man's fastest means of transportation until the invention of the locomotive. When Napoleon was in a hurry to get to a battlefield, the fastest mode of travel was still on horseback.

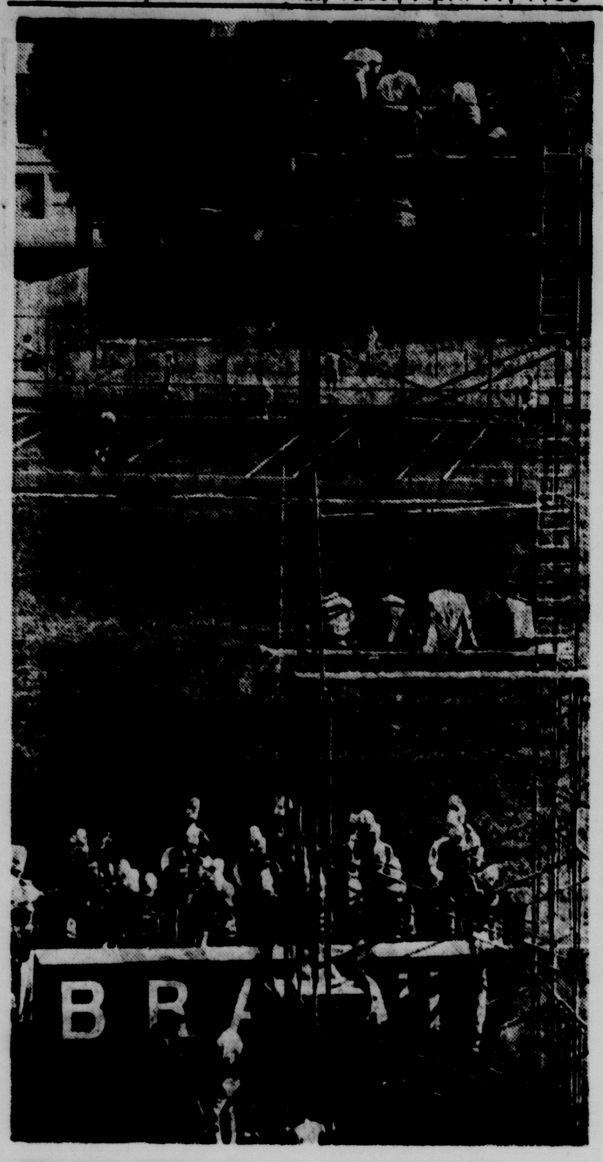
Young Bandsmen Star In TV Commercial

Members of San Rafael High School's marching band and their director, Terry Summa, got a good taste of show business last Saturday when they put in eight hours helping to film a color television commercial for showing next fall.

The youngsters found it to be hard, hot work in the 90-degree sun, but did their best to please the professional New York camera crew that filmed the production. Summa said he and his band members were thrilled at the opportunity and are eagerly looking forward to watching their efforts when they appear on home TV screens.

Their chance came after a production crew did some other commercials in Marin and concluded it is a good area in which to work. The weather did its best to co-operate, since not a cloud appeared in the sky during the long shooting day, which began at 7 a.m.

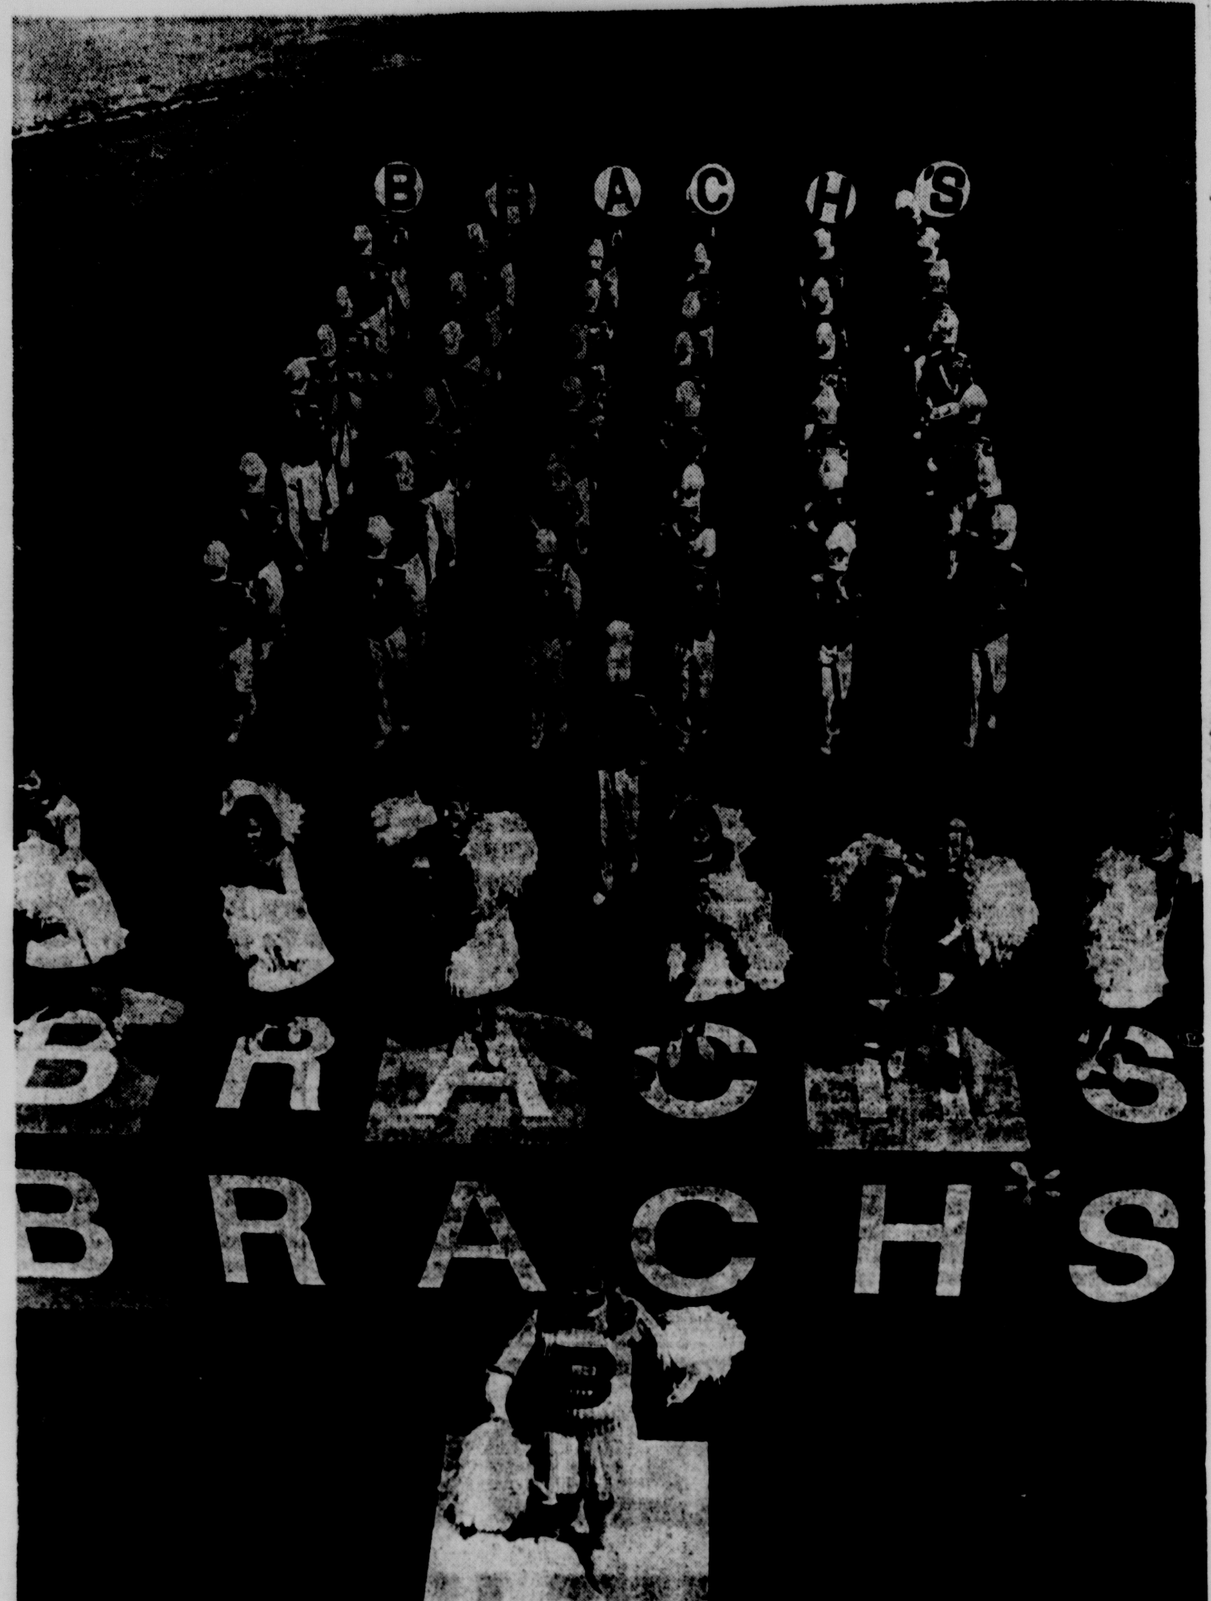


THE 'BLEACHERS'—To get the effect of looking down at a football field from the stands, New York television filming crew hired Marin Scaffold and Equipment Co. of San Rafael to put up this high framework on a practice field at San Rafael High School. Cameramen and director Herb Skoble climbed to the very top for their hard day's work. Members of the school's marching band, on the ground, found it a hot day in their uniforms.

THE BOSS—Director Herb Skoble was one of those who flew from New York for the single day of shooting. Using a bull-horn to amplify his voice, he ran the operation from the top level of the giant scaffolding. Other members of the production crew came from Houston and Los Angeles.

JUST LIKE THIS—Before filming the scene, Miss Goodwin and the other "professional cheerleaders" rehearsed with choreographer Rhoda Kerns of Walnut Creek. The entire filming was handled with the same amount of discipline, hard work and attention to detail which goes with the filming of a major motion picture or television production. The producers spent eight hours, $30,000, and shot 2,000 feet of film, to make a 60-second commercial with only 90 feet of film in edited form.

THE STAR — Los Angeles actress Laurel Goodwin played the role of the head cheerleader. The "B" on her sweater, naturally, stands for the name of the product whose manufacturer was paying out $30,000 for the day's shooting.



FINISHED PRODUCT—When television viewers see the color candy commercial filmed at San Rafael High School Saturday, it will look something like this. Photographer Kean stood next to the cameraman on a high scaffolding to shoot this picture. The idea was to make it seem as though the viewer was looking down on the field from the bleachers. The six sousaphones used to spell out the candy firm's name were scrounged from band rooms at three schools.

TOOK SIX—Band director Terry Summa had to go to Terra Linda High School and Davidson School as well as his own band room to find enough souzaphones, the marching version of the tuba, so each letter of the candy firm's name could be placed over the horns. Here, the quickly recruited souzaphone section rehearsed part of its marching maneuvers while other band members retreated to the rear. Their efforts brought the promise of a generous contribution by the candy maker to the school's band fund.

WOE IS ME

They painted me outside in my 4 BRs., sun room, living rm. with fireplace, 2 baths and slick kitchen. Then they left me, unloved and lonesome — PLEASE come soon and enjoy my level yard with the big apple tree. They left a stove and refrig., for you to do those apple pies. I am just 1 block from town on a quiet st. They think I'm so good they ask $26,000.

DESERTION

Imagine how I feel when I hear this family is going to move away. PLEASE don't leave me with that empty feeling. I am only 5 yrs. old—too young to be left alone. Only 2 retired people have tread my central hall. I am like shiny new in my 3 BRs., 2 baths, family rm-dining rm., long tile counters in my deluxe kitchen. There isn't much yard work, more time to relax on the patio. $31,000.

What DON'T you have to do at The MEADOWS of Terra Linda

You DON'T have to
- Drive your laundry to the laundermat
- Mow your lawn
- Park your car in cramped places
- Pay the water bill
- Drive miles to a superb putting green
- Go more than a few yards to dinner or cocktails (you have your own excellent dining and cocktail lounge!)
- Drive miles for a refreshing swim. (Swim in one of the three pools right here!)
- Wait hours at a public tennis court. (Play on your own championship courts!)

. . . in fact, our monthly social calendar provides many hours of leisure activities for your pleasure . . . when and if you WANT them!

But . . . you're invited to look at what you may WANT to do . . . !

- Take time to enjoy pleasant surroundings and relax with your family
- Enjoy a trouble-free home
- . . . and enjoy your leisure, for a change!

The Meadows of Terra Linda

May we introduce YOU to the wonderful living at The Meadows . . . . ? Drive out today and see it for yourself!

. . . at Terra Linda Turn-off, Hiway 101, at the end of Manuel Freitas Parkway (Just North of San Rafael)

San Anselmo Schools Chief Proposes Tax Ceiling Hike

Supt. Stephen Parodi of the San Anselmo School District will ask the district board tonight to begin considering an election to seek an increase in the district's maximum "operating" tax rate and a $500,000 or more bond issue.

Last April, district voters approved a $700,000 bond to construct one new seventh-eighth grade school (Red Hill) and convert Hidden Valley School to a seventh-eighth grade school. At the same time, however, they turned down a $500,000 state loan proposal which would have made funds available for the projects.

Parodi yesterday estimated the district will need $500,000 to $600,000 more to complete the seventh and eighth grade school projects. These funds would go for four more classrooms, a multi-use room and a principal's office at Red Hill, and three or four more classrooms and a multi-use room at Hidden Valley, he said.

Parodi declared also that the district's present maximum operating tax rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation is insufficient.

Restricted purpose taxes, plus repayment of bonds and state public schools loans brought the district's overall tax rate this year to $2.95 for $100 assessed valuation. The superintendent would not say what increase he thinks is necessary.

Parodi said the $2.25 rate brought only $275.80 per pupil in San Anselmo.

In the Sausalito School District, the same brings $659.18 per pupil he said. In the Kentfield School District, a $2.50 operating tax rate brings in $432.30 per pupil; in the Larkspur School District, a maximum allowable tax of $2.70 would bring in $418.36, the San Anselmo superintendent said.

"These figures show quite clearly why our board is in favor of unification," Parodi said. "The same tax rate just doesn't bring in the same revenue per pupil and equalization from the state doesn't help as much as it should to compensate."

Parodi said he will suggest preliminary discussions on the bond issue and the tax rate increase at tonight's meeting, "but I wouldn't expect any resolution on these for several months." They will not affect the district tax rate n fiscal 1967, he said.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m. in the faculty room at Isabel Cook School.

At the meeting, trustees will also consider proposals for salary increases for teachers and classified personnel. Parodi said he will recommend a five per cent increase in teacher salaries, changing the salary schedule from $5,292-$10,308 to $5,557-$10,823 per year. Teachers originally requested a range from $5,508 to $11,840, he said. He said the new schedule would cost the district $52,224 next year.

Parodi said he will recommend an across the board $15 increase for classified employees. They originally requested a 7.5 per cent across the board raise, he said. He said the $15 raise would be 3.15 per cent on the total non-teaching payroll.

Trustees will also consider a method for assigning seventh and eighth grade students to either Hidden Valley or Red Hill School. Generally speaking, the proposal calls for all those now attending Brookside and Sleepy Hollow schools to attend Hidden Valley School. Those now at Isabel Cook and Wade Thomas schools would attend Red Hill School.

Seventh grade students from Yolansdale School, this year being bussed to Sleepy Hollow School, would attend Hidden Valley, Parodi said, though later classes from Yolansdale would attend Red Hill.

Suits Shoplifted

Two women tried on clothes at Mr. C clothing store at 3400 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, yesterday, and after they left clerks noticed two three-piece knitted suits, worth $45.95 and $55.95, were missing from the store.

Burglars Hit Mill Valley Home Twice

Burglars have struck twice at the home of John A. Henslow, 73 Sunrise Avenue, Mill Valley, within two weeks, each time crawling in through a bedroom window and each time taking a television set among other items.

Henslow reported to police that, Friday, someone stole a new television set, a record changer and a .22 caliber pistol, total value being $363. On April 1, he told police that someone stole $587 in household items including his television set, a radio, phonographic equipment and $91 in cash.

Also reported to police was a burglary at the home of Edward W. Letson of 637 Throckmorton Avenue. Letson reported Saturday that several personal items were taken from the basement of his home while he was moving to a new home at 310 Linda Vista.

Behr To Speak On Park Bonds

County Supervisor Peter H. Behr will speak about Marin County's proposed $4.3 million park bond issue, to be voted upon June 7, at a meeting of the Marin Conservation Council at the Marin Rod and Gun Club tomorrow.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. and Behr's talk at about 9 p.m.

San Rafael Man Gets Consumer Board Post

Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday appointed Donald Vial of 40 Mount Lassen Drive, San Rafael, to the chairmanship of the program advisory committee to the State Consumer Counsel.

Vial, 42, is chairman of the Center for Labor Research and Education of the Institute of Industrial Relations at University of California, Berkeley.

Vial has a master's degree in economics from U.C. He was director of research and education for the California Labor Federation for 12 years until he took his present position at Berkeley a year ago. He has lived in Marin County for 10 years.

He is a board member of the American Civil Liberties Union of Northern California, and a member of the State Hospital Planning and Related Facilities Advisory Committee and chairman of its sub-committee on voluntary-government planning relationships.

He was appointed by the governor to the Commission on the Employment and Retirement Problems of Older Workers for 1959 and 1960, and was a member of the task force on the organization of medical care.

He was a member of the Governor's Committee on the Study of Medical Air and Health in 1960 and 1961.

Election Ends Wife's Career

DERBY, England (AP) — A British charwoman is hanging up her mop because her husband has been elected to Parliament.

"I'm saying goodbye to the old job," said Ida Perry, 51, whose husband George, a Laborite, won the South Nottingham seat in the House of Commons in the general election last month.

Mrs. Perry will be one of the onlookers Thursday when Queen Elizabeth II opens the new session of Parliament.

Before his election to Commons, Mrs. Perry's husband was a railway mechanic in Derby. He made about $78 a week. As a member of Commons he'll get about $180 a week.

Gun Safety Classes In Novato Scheduled

Proper handling and use of fire arms will be taught in a hunter safety course beginning tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The course, sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department, will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. for four Wednesdays, and will be taught by William Melson of Novato. There is no age restriction for those participating.

Union Wooing State Colleges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About 7,000 faculty members and librarians at California's 17 state colleges are the targets in a unionization drive by the AFL-CIO's American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

The union announced yesterday in San Francisco that petitions seeking union recognition from the State College Board of Trustees will begin circulating Thursday at the San Francisco State College campus and then the drive will spread to the other campuses.

Persons who sign the petitions will be asking the trustees to hold elections allowing faculty members and librarians to choose a union in bargaining for salaries, fringe benefits and working conditions.

Railroad Official Aids United Crusade Drive

Myron M. Christy of 36 Via Chaparro, San Rafael, president of Western Pacific Railroad Co., will serve as one of 22 corporate leaders to take the 1966 United Bay Area Crusade campaign to 240 major firms of the five Crusade counties of Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, Alameda and Contra Costa.

This is the group, employing 250 and more, that last year raised $7,011,676 in corporate and employee gifts, more than half the total contributed during the 1965 campaign to finance Crusade's 172 health, welfare and youth guidance agencies.

State Schools Bond Issue Due For Signature

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California voters were a stroke of the pen away today from deciding on June 7 whether they want to go into $275 million of indebtedness to build local schools and help poor kids with better teaching.

The Senate and Assembly, after some frantic coming and oing, gave final legislative approval to the bond issue yesterday. There is no question that Gov. Brown will sign it and thus move it to the primary election ballot, since he asked for the bond.

NEVER LOST

Some $240 million would go for grants and loans to school districts needing state building help. This is just the latest in a series of such issues that have become standard in recent years, and which never have been rejected.

Controversy, however, developed over the remaining $35 million. It is part of the governor's anti-poverty plan aimed mainly at big city slums such as Watts in Los Angeles.

Among other things, it gives poor districts money to hire extra teachers with the sole aim of reducing pupil-teacher ratio to 25 to 1 in kindergarten through grade six.

There were two approaches to this method.

UNRUH'S IDEA

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, wanted to spend a little of the money on portables, and most of it on rebuilding or repairing existing rundown schools. The Assembly bought this version.

The two different approaches threw the matter into a two-house conference committee. It solved the matter Monday by raising the amount for poverty schools from the original $20 million to $35 million, and by allowing districts to use the money as they wished, either for rebuilding or for portables, or even both.

The Senate was about to do the same several hours later when it was noticed that there was a technical error in the report.

So, amid much grumbling, the Assembly was called back in session and — although a quorum wasn't present — unanimously agreed to the correct version, which dropped the offending word that shouldn't have been there.

The Senate, still in session, then voted 33-2 for the right version of the bill by Assemblyman Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, and it went to the governor.

On March 19, 1918, Congress passed the Time Act adopting standard time which had been in use by railroads and nearly everyone else in the country for 35 years.

Republicans Tell Terms For Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Republicans, budget holdouts for more than two weeks, finally disclosed their terms today for supporting Democratic Gov. Brown's $4.62 billion spending bill.

In advance of a news conference, Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, outlined a GOP no-new-tax alternative to Brown's own controversial plan to avoid a tax hike.

He said the Republicans would also insist on budget cuts and revisions in proposed administration bond programs.

"We favor following completely the recommendation of the accountants," he said — referring to the private firm that originally offered the bookkeeping device Brown proposes to use to balance his budget without new taxes.

Brown proposed that most — but not all — state revenues be placed on an accrual basis — with expected tax dollars being counted in the treasury before they are actually received. That would make $243 million available this year to balance the budget.

The accountants, Monagan said, proposed that all revenues be counted the new way. Acceptance of that recommendation, he said, would answer GOP objections to the administration only using part of the new system—and still give the governor $170 million in additional revenues to avoid a tax raise.

With Republican terms on the table, the stage was set for possible settlement of the budget dispute that began in earnest when the GOP refused April 4 to vote for the bill.

With the 31-man GOP bloc standing firm, it meant the 49 Democrats couldn't et the two-thirds majority of 54 needed for lower house approval of the bill.

The GOP disclosed its plans a day after both houses agreed on a final version of a $27 million bond issue for the June ballot, raising money for local school construction and aid to impoverished districts in big city slums.

Pigeons Cause Prison Problem

Pigeons in the mess hall have been called an "aggravating" problem by the Inmate Council, while sparrows in the cell blocks twitter and flutter away unconcerned about the effect on the nerves of the prisoners underneath.

"Some of the men like to feed their feathered friends, others think they are downright unsanitary," Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today. "We have been unable to come up with any satisfactory solution."

25 YEARS OF Star-Spangled Security FOR AMERICANS 1941-1966

United States Savings Bonds now pay 4.15% when held to maturity

"Since its introduction in 1941, the Savings Bonds Program has aided millions of Americans in obtaining financial security and has provided the Federal Government with an effective method of financing a substantial portion of the public debt.

"Savings Bonds are no longer thought of merely as a means of supporting our nation's defense efforts, as they were in 1941. Today, they are recognized as sound investments, with many desirable characteristics for the most sophisticated saver as well as for the beginner trying to cultivate the savings habit.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Award To Marvin Proves Something

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The best actor award given to Lee Marvin last night on ABC-TV's Oscar show pretty well demolishes a Hollywood myth—that you can't become a truly prominent movie star once you've had a television series.

For the loyal video watcher will recall that it wasn't too many years ago that Marvin was the headliner of a regular television series, "M Squad," in which he portrayed a Chicago detective lieutenant.

The program was highly popular, a good, tough program with sharp character roles, and the world-weary magnetism of Marvin, a rugged, friendly, New York-born ex-Marine, made him known very definitely as a television personality, although he had also done numerous movies.

Other regular video performers have made the jump to motion pictures from their series: Steve McQueen, for instance, had a short run as a bounty hunter in the western "Wanted—Dead or Alive" before getting hot in movies. And James Garner has had a moderate career in films after long service in the light-hearted video western, "Maverick."

But the high Aacademy Award presented to Marvin for his role in "Cat Ballou" really shatters the patly-accepted myth that a performer identified with television has generally forfeited a career of movie stardom. As in all things, it all depends on the person involved, and the force of the personality, and the ability that is summoned.

And perhaps this was much of the reason for the long, warm-hearted and gracious applause that greeted Marvin as he accepted his Oscar, for he is widely regarded here, in the words of that fine old cliche, as an actor's actor. He works. And he works hard. And plenty. A television series. Video anthology roles. Movies. Character parts. Leading parts. Anything and everything that an actor should do.

Perhaps another reason for the honestly-offered applause was the fact that deep in its heart, Hollywood, like the rest of the movie-going world, knows that the truly appealing American film hero is still the tough guy with the heart of gold, an image that Marvin is perfectly equipped to fill.

If you don't think Marvin is, and has been, aware of this in a very knowing way, then I refer you to an interview I had with him seven years ago, when he was still in "M Squad," and was in his mid-30s:

"To be a star in this town," he said, "you've got to be a goodie. You can be a nasty goodie, but you've got to wind up saving the queen."

Concerning his series at the time, and how he was looking forward from it, he said: "there are detriments to playing the same role every day, because you're not really acting — you're playing yourself. You just couldn't act somebody else that often. And naturally every good actor predicates his career on variety."

It is a fine thing that Marvin is such a good actor, for I can tell you that he wouldn't make a very big living as a forecaster of show business happenings. In our conversation at that 1959 interview, he said: "series are just a phase of TV. Three years from now, most of them will disappear. Many of them are wrecking TV because of their poor quality, and you can be sure pay-TV will move in in a big way."

Well, his heart was in the right place, viewers of the ABC-TV oscar show Monday may have noticed that for the first time in memory there was a reasonably appropriate sponsor: Eastman-Kodak. The program was done in color for the first time too, and the hues were so splendid that you could see the yellow of some of the accepters' teeth.

San Anselmo Councilmen To Take Seats

The San Anselmo City Council will canvass election returns, then seat two new members and a successful incumbent at 8 p.m. today.

Returning to the council will be Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro. Seated for the first time will be election front-runners Robert M. Scott and Duane C. Ragan. The new council will elect officers, then move on to business as usual.

First item on the agenda will be public hearing on Shell Oil Co.'s request for a permit to operate a service station at 805 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

It is the station's second public hearing before the council. The use permit was denied by both council and planning commission the first time. In the second round, it has been rejected already by a tie vote of the planning commission.

County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen will appear before the council to seek endorsement of the proposed $4.3 million county park bond issue.

The council will receive a letter from the city Park and Recreation Commission recommending endorsement of the bond issue and asking for $1,000 to make a preliminary plan for the 62-acre Sorich Ranch, in anticipation of the city's share of the bond funds.

Citizens Unit May Be Formed

A citizens committee for schools in the Fairfax School District may be formed at a meeting called by the trustees for tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. in Manor School to discuss the district's financial needs.

The board is campaigning for approval of an increase in the maximum operating tax rate from $2.05 to $2.70 "for an indefinite period." The proposal will go before district voters June 7.

Supt. Homer Sisk said the proposed committee would be made up of people concerned about the educational program of the district.

Turner Will Appear In Mental Health Talk

William W. Turner, administrator of Marin General Hospital, and Dr. Clyde G. Miller, director of the Marin County Mental Health Services, will participate in a panel discussion on the planned Community Mental Health Center at a regional meeting of the state hospital and medical facility personnel, tomorrow through Saturday in Los Angeles.

The discussion, on "A Community Mental Health Center—Merging Concept and Design in Marin County," is scheduled for Thursday.

Flower Show

Flower arrangements by Dale Eubanks and Ermenia Regnier of Katherine Eubanks Florist, Larkspur, have qualified them to enter the May 22 western state competition of Florists Telegraph Delivery in San Francisco. The contest winner will represent the West at the national FTD convention in August.

Drake Library Gets State Funds

Sir Francis Drake High School has received approval from the State Board of Education on an application for $41,821 for library improvements at the high school.

James L. Pierce, director of instruction at the high school, said the high school library has just been renovated and enlarged, and these funds will be used to equip it.

The equipment, which Pierce said should be ready for the start of the fall semester, will include tape recorders, record players, television sets, tapes, records, and earphones. More than half the money will be used for books and periodicals, he said.

Child Development

Dr. H. E. Thelander, director of the Child Development Center at the Children's Hospital of San Francisco, will speak on "Wide Variations in Children" at a meeting of the Marin County chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the former curriculum laboratory room at the Civic Center.

The Point Reyes National Seashore is the first such national area on the Pacific Coast.

Giants Ride High On Power, Pitching

CHICAGO (AP)—Off to a fast start at home, the San Francisco Giants embarked on a seven-game road trip today facing the same clubs they whipped last week at Candlestick Park.

Ron Herbel drew the starting assignment in today's Chicago inaugural for the Cubs' new manager, eLo Durocher, whose club won just once in six starts away from Wrigley Field. Ernie Broglio started for the Cubs.

Willie Mays and Tom Haller provided much of the power as each belted a pair of homers with the former hitting .348 and the latter .381 for the opening home stand.

Jim Hart hit nine singles in 21 appearances for a .429 mark. When he was forced out of Sunday's game with a tightened muscle, Jim Davenport came on and hit a homer. Len Gabrielson had belted one in the opener, so for five games the Giants had a total of six round trippers.

Even that was overshadowed by pitching as Juan Marichal and Bob Bolin each notched a pair of victories. Marichal went the full route twice, giving up just one earned run. Bolin finished his first start and went 8 1-3 in his second and has yet to be touched for an earned tally.

Defensively, Tito Fuentes at shortstop was and still is the big question mark, yet the little Cuban came up with some fine fielding plays and great throwing while hitting .250. He committed just one error and that in the opening game.

At home a year ago, the Giants posted the best mark in the league with a 51-30 record compared with 50 - 31 for the champion Los Angeles Dodgers. On the road San Francisco was 44-37, but the Dodgers won out overall with 47-34 on rival diamonds.

This trip finds the Giants in Chicago for games through Thursday and then at the Houston Astrodome Friday through Sunday, including a double header on Saturday.

The seven games in six days will mean a starting assignment for Gaylord Perry, the lanky hurler who posted a 5-0 record during spring training. Perry, with a newly developed fast slider, started fast a year ago and then faltered to lose his spot in the rotation.

450 YOUNGSTERS ENTER MARIN SWIMMING MEET

Some 450 youngsters have entered the Marin Swimming Championships scheduled for this weekend in the Bon Air Recreation Center pool in Greenbrae.

The boys and girls, up to 17 years old, will be representing 29 clubs from the west coast. The event is being sponsored by Schultz Enterprises, Marin Pirates Swim Club and the Independent-Journal.

Verle Sorgen and Ann Curtis Cuneo will broadcast live reports during the meet on Radio Station KTIM. The five-minute broadcasts will be aired every half hour during the regular scheduled KTIM programs.

Ump Recalls Run-Ins With Lip; Einstein Outhittng Mr. Mays

LEO DUROCHER'S appearance in San Francisco with the Chicago Cubs last week brought to mind a recent speech to the San Rafael Rotary Club by retired major league umpire Babe Pinelli, now a resident of Sonoma.

The Babe, whose greatest claim to fame was calling the balls and strikes for Yankee Don Larsen's perfect no-hit, no-run World Series game in 1955, was telling about his many run-ins with managers and, naturally, the fiery Durocher was mentioned.

"WHAT DOES Durocher say when he's arguing with umpires?" a Rotarian asked.

"Well," smiled the Babe, "he isn't exactly inviting him to dinner. If you see him get thrown out of the game right at the start of an argument, then you know he called the umpire a filthy name.

"Heck, I chased Leo seven times in four years," laughed Pinelli, "but in my reports to the league I couldn't say Leo's language was obscene. He was always a border-line case with me."

WHEN ASKED umpires' emotional reaction to booing from fans, the white-haired septuagenerian shrugged, "It never bothers an umpire. We love you fans. You can boo your brains out."

Babe also said that in 22 years of umpiring he never had another arbiter reverse one of his decisions, ". . . but I was never too proud to reverse my own decision on a play. And, oh, that means TWO beefs."

PINELLI IS no stranger to Marin. As a sandlotter back in 1915, he played semi-pro ball for $5 a game in San Rafael before going on to major league stardom with the Chicago White Sox, Detroit and Cincinnati.

MIKE EINSTEIN, first baseman for the Tamalpais High School Indians, is son of Mill Valley author and baseball expert Charles Einstein who writes an awful lot like Willie Mays, sometimes even better.

Mike is batting at a .428 clip for Tam. Which, also, is better than Mays.

WHEN ASKED about his appointment as new head golf pro at San Rafael's Peacock Gap Country Club last week, Warren Downing gushed like a kid with a key to a candy store: "Thrilled? Excited? Man, I don't think my feet have touched the ground yet. Peacock Gap is a showplace club and I'm looking forward to the challenge with great anticipation."

He also noted, "The owners are spending a tremendous amount of money to refurbish the club. We'll have a large golf staff because the heavy play demands it. I'll carry a staff of five assistants. We're bringing in a fleet of new T-Bird electric carts, manicuring the course from tee to green on every hole and, in general, making Peacock Gap into a magazine cover type operation."

Downing, a bachelor, was born and raised in Hawaii and broke into golf as an assistant at Mare Island, where he stayed for six years. He then became head pro at Round Hills Country Club in Alamo for three years, followed by two years as head pro at Golden Gate Fields and now to Peacock.

Welcome to the Bounty County, Warren.

Palmer's Playoff Victory

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer flew home for a rest in his Pennsylvania home today, the four-stroke winner in the Tournament of Champions playoff.

Palmer won his second straight Tournament of Champions title in a playoff yesterday and $20,000 when he shot a 34-35—69. Brewer picked up $12,000 second place money with his 36-37—73.

Bucking 35-mile-an-hour winds and a sandstorm, Palmer took a two-stroke lead after the first nine holes of the playoff — the first playoff in the tourney's 14-year history. He went into the 18th hole with a five-stroke margin.

Palmer admittedly played it safe on the last hole and went over par with a bogey 5. But it was still safe enough to give him a four stroke margin at the windup.

The 18-hole playoff attracted 2,847 fans and a gross gate of $19,929. Palmer and Brewer each received $4,982 for the playoff.

TRADE BIRDS

Palmer and Brewer traded birdies for the first four holes, but Palmer took a lead of two strokes after nine holes. Brewer fell behind in what probably was the decisive turn of events when he bogeyed the eighth and ninth holes.

Brewer fell further behind on the 10th with his bogey 6. Palmer virtually cinched the match with his birdie 2 on the 11th when he put a four-iron shot two feet from the pin to go four ahead.

It was the second playoff loss in a week for Brewer. He finished third last Monday in the Masters tournament to Jack Nicklaus and Tommy Jacobs.

Brewer had a chance to cut Palmer's lead on the 524-yard 15th when Palmer was in the rough off the tee. Arnie's second shot went over into another rough with eight-inch grass. Finally on the green in three, Palmer was confronted with a 20-foot putt and made it.

Palmer plans to spend the next two weeks at his home in Latrobe, Penn., and play next in the Houston Invitational Tournament.

Revive Hopes, Now Trail By One Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Seals won the game they had to and climbed back into the Western Hockey League semi-final playoff series against Victoria.

The Seals took a 4-2 victory last night at the Cow Palace before 3,363 fans to close Victoria's lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven series. Vancouver and Portland are tied 1-1 in the other playoff struggle going into tonight's tussle at Portland.

Goalies Marcel Pelletier of San Francisco and John Henderson, ex-Seal traded to Victoria, were outstanding in last night's tight battle at the Cow Palace.

George Swarbrick, brilliant rookie of 1964-65 who started slowly and finished fast this season, was the offensive star of the night. He hit the go-ahead goal 15:01 into the second stanza and then gave Wayne Maxner a perfect feed for the cinching goal with about five minutes to go in the contest.

Mike Harvey's breakaway goal which tied the game 2-2 was the most sensational play of the evening. He picked the puck from a Maple Leaf at the red line and skated in all the way. But Henderson played him nearly perfectly, forcing Mike to cross the crease to the far side and slip the puck in at the last possible second before he slammed into the boards.

Wayne Connelly got his third goal of the series to open the scoring on a power play, but Victoria rolled back on two goals within 1:11 by Mike Labadie and Bob Barlow.

It was 2-1 Victoria after the first period but Harvey, Swarbrick and Maxner gave the Seals the win. Henderson had 25 saves and Pelletier 26. The two teams meet in rematches here Wednesday and Friday.

First period—1, San Francisco, Connelly (Burns) 12:58. 2, Victoria, Labatie (unassisted) 16:39. 3, Victoria, Barlow, (Marcetta, Schvetz) 17:50. Penalties — Sleaver VI 1:04; Harris SF 4:42; Jankowski VI 11:13.

Second period—4, San Francisco, Harvey (unassisted) 6:17. 5, San Francisco, Swarbrick (Schock, Burns) 15:01. Penalties—Jankowski Vi 3:07; Gilbertson SF 11:14; Erickson Vi 11:14; F. Hucul Vi 14:32.

Third period—6, San Francisco, Maxner (Swarbrick) 15:28. Penalties— Gilbertson SF 7:22; Henderson VI 19:01; Swarbrick SF 19:01; McNabb SF 19:59.

Saves
Henderson	8	9—25
Pelletier	9	9—26

CELTIC'S COACH

Big Bill Thinks It Might Be Fun

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics return to business at hand and try to square their National Basketball Assn. series with the Los Angeles Lakers tonight after naming Capt. Bill Russell their 1966-67 coach.

Less than 24 hours after dropping the series opener 133-129 in overtime, the Celtics surprised the sports world yesterday by choosing Russell to succeed Red Auerbach, who is retiring from the coaching ranks after the playoffs to concentrate on duties as general manager.

"I'm pleased, proud and happy," Russell said after becoming the first Negro to coach a major league pro club. "Once again the Celtics are making National Basketball Assn. history—not only on the court but on the bench."

The 32-year-old Russell, who has two years left on a contract paying him $100,001 annually, announced he would serve as a player-coach. He admitted that he was getting old, but said, "As a player, I believe I'm one of my assets as a coach."

The choice of Russell caught most observers by surprise because for years he had insisted that any pro coach had to be "a candidate for a nut factory." In addition, the Celtics reportedly were considering several others, including Alex Hannum, Paul Seymour and Frank Ramsey.

"I consider this one of the biggest personal challenges I've had in the past 10 years," Russell said. "When Red first asked me, I thought he was putting me on. Then he assured me he sincerely wanted me to take the job.

"My first consideration was the team. Then I figured I could do the job and also could stand the aggravation and frustration that goes with coaching. I finally decided it might be a lot of fun."

There is little question that the 6-foot-10 Russell faces a stiff challenge. As Auerbach's successor, he will take over from the most successful coach in NBA history.

Russell earned All-America honors at the University of San Francisco and starred in the Olympic Games before joining the Celtics in December, 1956. He immediately helped build the Celtics into a dynasty.

Boston won its first NBA title in Russell's freshman season, but lost to St. Louis in the finals the next year. Since then, the Celtics have won seven straight championships, a feat unparalleled in pro sports history.

The Celtics resume their bid to give Auerbach another title as a retirement present at the Boston Garden tonight. They are rated strong favorites to even the best-of-seven series with the Lakers before the clubs move to Los Angeles for games Wednesday and Friday.

Bucs Charge To Top; Dodgers Win, Too

By JEFF MEYERS
UPI Sports Writer

The Pirates chugged into a first-place National League tie with the San Francisco Giants last night by shading Cincinnati 4-3 despite losing their starting pitcher and regular catcher because of pulled muscles.

The Pirates gave their senior circuit express a king-size push uphill in the seventh inning by executing the season's first triple play. Tommy Harper and Pete Rose greeted Bob Purkey with lead off back-to-back singles.

But Vada Pinson struck out on a 3-2 pitch and Jesse Gonder, subbing behind the plate for Pagliaroni, fired to third base as Rose and Harper attempted to stage their second double steal of the game.

Bob Bailey chased Harper back to second, flipping the ball to Bill Mazeroski, who made the put out. Rose, seeing Harper race back to second, attempted to return to first base but was tagged out by Donn Clendenon.

Rookie Don Sutton posted his first major league triumph in leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-3 victory and spoiling Houston's home opener. The only other major league game scheduled — between Atlanta and Philadelphia—was postponed because of rain.

The inning prior to Pittsburgh's triple play, pinch-hitter Jose Pagan doubled in two runs to highlight a three-run Pirate uprising. After a walk and Bill Mazeroski's forceout, Bob Bailey walked and Gonder singled home Mazeroski, with both Bailey and Gonder moving up a base on Vada Pinson's error. Pagan, making only his second plate appearance of the campaign, followed with his double.

The Bucs' first run came in the fifth inning when defending N.L. batting champion Roberto Clemente singled home Dave Roberts from third.

The Reds, who have yet to hit a home run this season, capitalized on the wildness of Pittsburgh starter Luke Walker, the first of six Pirate hurlers. Pinson raised his hitting string to 31 games by singling home a pair of runs, and later scored on an infield out.

Sutton, a 21-year-old righthander, limited Houston to one run and five hits until the eighth inning when he weakened, giving up two runs on singles by Sonny Jackson and Joe Morgan and a double by Rusty Staub. Sutton finished the inning but was replaced by Phil Regan.

The Dodgers scored two runs in the first on consecutive singles by Maury Wills, Wes Parker and Ron Fairly and another safety by Lou Johnson off loser Robin Roberts, whom the Dodgers beat in their home opener at Los Angeles.

Wills drove in the world champions' fifth run and John Roseboro batted across the final Dodger tally in the ninth in typical Los Angeles fashion. Johnson doubled and scored all the way from second on a sacrifice bunt by Roseboro.

A DIVING SAVE FOR THE SEALS

Seals goalie Marcel Pelletier made a great save on this play during Western Hockey League playoff game at the Cow Palace last night. Pettetier made a diving stop of drive by Victoria's Bob Barlow (7). Other seals are Larry McNabb (2) and Ron Harris (7). San Francisco won, 4-2. Story on page 31. (AP Wirephoto)

Tournament Of Champions Victim Of Phony Morality

To put on golf tournaments nowadays you need to do something more than put up $100,000, let the rough grow, and hope Jack Nicklaus doesn't have something better to do that week.

Golfers make more money on TV these days than General Sarnoff and star in more films than Gregory Peck. It's a wrench to have to show up for live tournament, and all a guy has to win is the National Open to spend his next 12 months playing out of Saudi Arabia sand bunkers or Mediterranean water lies for an oil company for 10 times the money he got beating 150 flesh-and-bloood players.

THE PGA is like the prettiest girl at the dance—they've got more dates than they can handle. A promoter takes a tournament any time he can get it—between the hours of midnight and dawn on Feb. 29 if he must.

There were two tournaments running last week, for instance. The Azalea Open, a fairly venerable tour stop in North Carolina, has to make do with a field that looks like the first-round qualifiers for the Delaware State Amateur.

THE ELITE field was at the Desert Inn at Las Vegas. The Tournament of Champions is unique in that no player gets voted in by a committee of low finishers in the U.S. Amateur or by a private club in Blighty. The runned-up of the Afghanistan Open can't make it. Neither can the guy who finished 24th at the Edsel-Hupmobile Open. You get a starting time not on popularity, but on prowess. It doesn't have any more tradition than Mussolini's navy, and you don't get a regimental tie or a chartreuse coat for winning.

THE CLUBHOUSE was not designed after the Royal and Ancient St. Andrews—it looks more like the motel cocktail lounge in Fresno. The gallery does not wear tweeds and shooting sticks—shorts and sequinned sun glasses are more favored. There's not a monocle in sight. It's as garish as a neon light at 4 in the morning. It's what the old fuddies at Carnoustie were afraid of when they made golf professionals use the tradesmen's entrance. It offers the best field in somewhat less than the best setting—like putting the Hope diamond on a Listerine ring.

IT IS ALSO, in its own way, a victim of the phony morality of our times. We are in an era when it is considered immoral in athletics to bet on one's self, and athletic commissioners from coast to coast are taking time out on their way to the race track to suspend athletes who are taking themselves and giving points.

THEY USED to have a Calcutta on these things, cooperative betting rings in which the host gamblers would loudly bid for the services of key players. Sam Snead once sold for $25,000 and, had he won, his bidder would have received 40 per cent of $300,000. Charity would have got 10 per cent.

The Calcutta is the black hole of golf. Like religion, many crimes have been committed in its name. Ben Hogan and Jack Burke were the reigning monarchs of golf in those days, and they haughtily refused to play in such sinful surroundings.

BUT GAMBLING is legal in Nevada. So are a lot of other things. And the evil of Calcutta was that a ringer with a false handicap would pull an Arnold Rothstein on the gang at Sleepy Hollow and come in with a net 52 with a ball out of bounds.

But Lloyd Mangrum was hardly a high-handicapper from Holyoke. Bidders who didn't know to a lag putt what their heroes were capable of hadn't been paying attention. The opportunities for larcency were better at a vicarage.

THE POT was edging up to a half-mililon when the colorful slave auction market was discontinued. Cancer resarch got the 10 per cent.

It is not inconceivable it would have reached a mililon by now—bid and ask. Golfers bet regularly. So do people. I wish the Tournament of Champions would continue to distinguish itself by holding its Calcutta and not apologizing to anyone. It's part of the romance of golf. It's done on a penny-ante, behind-the-bar basis, anyway. Why not make an honest woman of it? Or do you like cancer?

Houston Astroturf Passes First Test

HOUSTON (AP) — Only three errors were committed when the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Houston Astros 6-3 Monday night, and the Astrodome's man-made grass infield wasn't at fault for any of them.

The first error came when Houston outfielder Rusty Staub bobbled Ron Rairly's single to center that let in the first run.

In the fifth inning, third baseman Jim Lefebvre of the Dodgers had no trouble scooping up Sonny Jackson's grounder — but made a bad throw to first for an error.

Los Angeles' second error, and the third and last of the game, was committed in the seventh inning when second baseman Nate Oliver couldn't get enough glove on pinch hitter Bill Heath's grounder.

More than 25,000 watched the world champion Dodgers become the first team to win an official game on the synthetic infield, made of tough nylon strips zippered together. Astro officials hope to carpet the entire outfield with the bright green material, dubbed Astroturf, by mid-June.

"The ball still comes off it quickly," said the energetic rookie who socked the Astros for three home runs in their series in Los Angeles last week. "But I've noticed a lot of improvement in the dirt. They've done a lot of work on that."

Astrodome officials ordered the ground beneath the carpet softened after comments from some players that the plush surface was too fast — balls often bounced off the turf with alarming speed.

The synthetic rug was necessary because real grass had difficulty growing under the huge astrodome's roof. When light panels in the big top were painted to cut down sun glare, the grass had even more trouble.

San Rafael Cadets Win In Golf Match

Medalist Bill Donaldson's one-over-par 36 paced the San Rafael Military Academy's golf team to a 5-0 victory over Rohnert Park High yesterday at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

Munich Is Favored For '72 Games

ROME (UPI) —The decision of Madrid to remain in the bidding for the 1972 summer Olympic games apparently has strengthened the position of favored Munich, informed sources said today.

Reports had been circulated that Madrid had withdrawn from the race because of the high price tag ($250 million) attached to the games but the Spanish Olympic Committee announced yesterday that it had not pulled out of the expensive competition.

Observers had felt that the withdrawl of Madrid would throw significant support to Montreal, whose mayor, Jean Drapeau, is currently in Rome campaigning for his city. Munich figures to have the most to gain from a big split in the ballots.

Detroit is the fourth candidate for the Olympiad but the United States city is not considered a very strong threat.

The final decision will be made by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) on April 26 during its nine-day convention here. Also scheduled for a vote was the site of the 1972 winter games. The candidates in that race are Banff, Canada, Lahti, Finland, Salt Lake City and Sapporo, Japan.

Pro Tennis Getting Rich; $50,000 Purses Predicted

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's richest professional tennis tournament— $30,000 in prize money — will be played at Forest Hills June 8-12, and promoters say it is just the beginning.

"I am convinced that with time and proper promotion we can build a series of $50,000 events for the tennis pros," said Ed Carter, co-director with Tom Burke.

Carter served as tournament director of the Professional Golfers Assn. between 1956 and 1961 and during that time saw the yearly prize money raised from $800,000 to $2 million.

"It's all just amatter of promotion," Carter said. "There is no reason that tennis can't be built up on a comparative scale."

The five-day tournament at the West Side Tennis Club, site of the National Grass Court Championships, will be a round-robin event played under the Van Alen Symplified Scoring System, originated by James Van Alen of Newport, R.I.

All the leading pros are expected to complete, including Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall and Pancho Gonzales. Rounding out the invited list of 12 will be Lew Hoad, Alex Olmedo, Mal Anderson, Andres Gimeno, Butch Buccholz, Mike Davies, Pancho Segura, Pierre Barthes and Luis Ayala.

The tournament will be under the co-sponsorship of the International Professional Tennis Assn. Carter and Burke are acting as promoters, working with Wallie Dill, executive director of the pro group.

It will be a round robin, starting with matches in which 21 points decide the victor. The four top finishers compete in a second robin of matches of 31 points. The two survivors will play a 31-point match for the top prize.

"I think the trouble with pro tennis has been the awkward scoring and long-drawn-out matches," Carter said. "We are rectifying that. As soon as the money gets big, we'll have pro players, and we'll be on our way.

"It may take a few years, but pro tennis can be promoted into a successful, money-making sport."

Ace At Marin Club

Norton Dawson of San Francisco used a five-iron to score a hole-in-one on the 169-yard second hole at Marin Country Club golf course Sunday. Witnesses were Mrs. Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nestel, also of San Francisco.

MEMORIAL DAY

78 Entries For Indy 500-Miler

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The 78 entries for the golden anniversary Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30 include 46 new autos, largest number in track history.

The entry list itself is the largest since 1953, when 84 cars competed for the 33 slots in the Memorial Day marathon.

Owners who posted $1,000 per entry have submitted a large variety of engines with Ford and Offenhauser power plants dominating the list.

The field includes 33 V-8 Ford racing engines, 15 non-supercharged Offenhausers, 13 blown Offenhausers, five modified Chevies, a pair of 16-cylinder BMR units and one each twin-engine Porsche, supercharged Novi, modified Rambler, turbocharged Offy, and turbo-shaft engine.

Four former Indianapolis 500 winners already have been assigned cars — Jim Clark, Duns, Scotland, last year's champion; A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., winner in 1964 and 1961; Parnelli Jones, Palos Verdes, Calif., 1963, and Rodger Ward, Indianapolis, 1962 and 1959.

Twenty-six additional drivers have previous experience at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, while 16 are rookies. No pilots have been picked yet for 32 entries.

Practice will begin April 30 with time trials May 14-15 and 21-22.

Women's Sailing Course To Open

A sailing course for women will be conducted by Jeanne Nooney of Mill Valley starting April 26 and running through May 31.

The six one-hour lectures will be held on Tuesdays at 10 a.m. on the Sausalito waterfront. The first class will meet at Bauman and Miller's Boat Store on the Boardwalk. There is a $10 registration fee.

Bout Is Postponed

TOKYO (AP) — The Orient lightweight title fight between champion Flash Elorde of the Philippines and Yoshiaki Numata of Japan was postponed today from May 12 to June 9 because of incomplete arrangements for the site of the bout.

Redwood Golfers Top Novato For 11th Straight

Buzz Beattie fired a one-over par 36 yesterday to lead Redwood High School's undefeated golf team to a 4-2 victory over Novato at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

In leading the Giants to their 11th straight victory and fourth in Marin Athletic League play, Beattie easily downed Novato's Randy Hutchinson, 5 and 4, in match play.

Novato's Ray Leach tied Beattie for medalist honors, also firing a 36 in downing Redwood's Mike Kelley, 4 and 3.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Salmon Trollers Score Limits; Rockfish Located At Pt. Reyes

STEVENS

Man, oh man, what a day of trolling the salmon sport-fishing fleet had on Saturday. Just about every boat working the Rocky Point area came back to port with full limits for all aboard.

For example, Tony Caruso of Caruso's harbor at Sausalito reported full limits from the smallest boat which had 7 limits to 18 limits for the larger boats. Fish caught weren't "smokers" but they did run to 28 pounds. Practically all fish landed were taken on anchovies for bait, but a few were landed on artificials.

Because of the hundreds of fresh salmon now in the catchers' refrigerators, and realizing that many of my readers, especially in Marin County, would like a set of my salmon recipes, I have had 100 extra copies mimeographed, featuring 23 different methods of preparing for table, including an easy method of home canning. If you wish a set of these recipes send me a self-addressed, stamped, legal-sized envelope and I'll be happy to oblige.

APPARENTLY DEEP sea rockfishing also was red hot on Saturday. Caruso reported the Reel Special bringing in 783 assorted rockfish and 113 ling cod to 33 pounds. Rockfish must be holding a convention in the Point Reyes sector.

A LATE release from the Department of Fish and Game contains the following paragraph: "So far, the DFG reported yesterday, landings do not endanger the anchovy resource, and no quotas have been reached."

In the same release I noted that Zone 2, the San Pedro area, with a quota of 10,000 tons, landed 7,061 tons. True, the quota was not reached, but one wonders how long it will take to just about clean Zone 2 if nearly 800 tons have already been harvested.

A club bulletin (The Castro Valley Rod and Gun Club) reads: "Please Sign Petitions. Ray Bartleson, secretary of the club, asks that all fishermen sign a petition to be found in most bait houses and sporting goods stores insisting that anchovies NOT BE NETTED AND TURNED INTO FERTILIZER."

IT IS certain that any fisherman who knows the tragic story of the sardine, which was once very numerous off our coast, being netted by commercial boats, won't hesistate to put his signature on such a paper. He also should, and I imagine he will, urge all his non-fishing friends and acquaintances to do the same.

Too bad the sportsmen waited until the bill allowing 75,000 tons of anchovies to be reduced to fertilizer was passed. Probably the word got around that the Governor had indicated he would veto that bill when it reached his desk. We all know he did veto, but we also know the political ways are many and often devious. It may be a case of shutting the barn door after the horse has been stolen, but there is always a chance that the horses can be recovered. Enough signatures on petitions assuring the issue being placed on the November ballot might turn the trick. Here's hoping and that's 30 for today. Chow!

NEVER TOO EARLY FOR RED BROWN

"You're never too early, says Drake High School basketball coach Carl "Red" Brown, whose Pirates won the consolation title at last month's Tournament of Champions in Berkeley.

Brown has already sent out the opening day pairings for the second annual Drake Invitational Basketball Tournament, scheduled Dec. 7 through 10.

In opening round games, it's Drake vs. Napa, Novato vs. Balboa, Redwood vs. Montgomery of Santa Rosa and Terra Linda vs. Petaluma.

Three Preps Tied For Batting Lead

Fred Daniele of Terra Linda, John Komo of Marin Catholic, and Gary Stephens of Tamalpais are leading the Marin Athletic League batting averages, each at the .500 mark.

Daniele is also the top man in runs batted in, with six. San Rafael is sporting the best team batting average, .265.

Ben Burch, Marin Catholic's ace hurler, has 20 strikeouts already in league play. Baseball leaders:

Hardtop Racing Season Starts In Petaluma

The 1966 Petaluma hardtop racing season gets underway Saturday night at 7 o'clock at the Petaluma Fairgrounds. The card will feature four heat races, a trophy dash, semi-main and main event.

A bigger track, souped up cars and more entries are factors hoped by promoter John J. Soares that will make this season one of the all-time best.

Soares said the track has been extended 50 feet to open up the straightaway. The track has been banked more and is expected to take more speed around the turns.

Cal Crew Upset By UCLA Bruins

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA's rowers have overcome a yearly frustration that began in 1948.

The Bruins scored an upset victory over the perennially strong California crew Saturday—the first time in 19 races that UCLA has beaten the Bears. Southern California took third.

As a strong wind swept the 2,000-meter course on Ballona Creek, UCLA finished in 6:07.0, Cal in 6:12.5 and USC in 6:19.0.

BEAUTY AND THE BOAT

Jeanne Hennessy (standing) and Sue Ochsner add a little beauty to this 5.5-meter sloop, helping yachtsmen get ready for the April 30-May 1 Intersectional Olympic Sailing Regatta. Sponsored by Richmond Yacht Club and sanctioned by the Northern California Olympic Classes Sailing Assn., the event is expected to draw sailors from many parts of the West.

MAJOR LEAGUE NOTEBOOK:

Attendance Up On Coast

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the Majors:

Major league baseball attendance on the West Coast shows a slight increase over last season. The Los Angeles Dodgers have drawn 171,541 spectators for six home appearances compared to 166,569 last year. San Francisco attendance is 125,319 for six home games, a gain of 2,184 over 1965. The California Angels open at home tonight.

Last season, they had the best American League record in overtime games, 15-9. They're already 2-0 this year, with a 3-2 victory over California in 14 innings and a 2-1 triumph over Kansas City in 11.

THERE'S NO telling how high Tony Oliva's batting average will go now that he has started to solve California and Kansas City pitching. In the two series the Minnesota star has played so far this year, he's batted .571 against the Angels and .400 against the A's. In 1965 when Oliva won the A.L. batting crown for the second straight time, he hit only .228 against California and .262 against Kansas City. Oliva's overall 1965 mark is .529 with nine hits in 17 tries.

THE OFF-SEASON layoff of Juan Marichal hasn't affected the control of the San Francisco pitching ace. He has yielded only one base on balls while going the distance in two winning games. The big right-hander was the National League's top control pitcher last year with only 46 walks in 295 innings for an average of 1.40 walks per nine inning game.

MAYBE LEO Durocher, the new Chicago Cubs' manager, could use a four-leaf clover. The Cubs have lost by 4-2 and 4-0 scores twice each and won their only game, 9-4. They've also made four errors and four double plays.

SANDY KOUFAX of the Dodgers, who set a big league record by striking out 382 batters last season, has some catching up to do this year. He's fanned only eight in two apeparances. Tony Cloninger of the Braves is the National League pace-setter with 18.

THE CLEVELAND Indians, leading the American League with a 4-0 record, apparently made a good deal when they obtained Jim Landis in a four-player trade with Kansas City during the winter. Landis, a fine defensive outfielder, has had four hits, including two doubles, in five tries. He has driven in three runs.

THERE'S LITTLE doubt who's the fair-haired Boyer in New York these days. Ken Boyer of the Mets is hitting .500 with six hits in 12 at bats while brother Clete of the Yanks is batting only .091 with two hits in 22 trips.

THERE'S A good reason why the Kansas City A's are in the A.L. cellar with an 0-5 record. They're batting a collective .177 and have yet to hit their first home run. Individual culprits are Bill Bryan, hitless in 11 tries and Larry Stahl, hitless in 10.

Denise Ham Is Lone Winner

Denise Ham was the lone Ann Curtis Swim Club first place winner last weekend at the Santa Rosa Swim Meet, winning the 50-yard freestyle for 11 and 12-year-olds.

Other point winners for the Ann Curtis team were Maura Campion, Susie Cuneo, Carrie Cuneo, Ann Engel, Letha Morse, Jan Messesschmidt, Ken DeMont and Colleen Donovan.

Marin Lacrosse Team Wins, 11-3

Peacock Gap Lacrosse Club will host the University of California team next Saturday at Hamilton Air Force Base, the game to start at 1:30 p.m.

The Marin County team whipped San Marino of Southern California 11-3 last Sunday at University of Stanford's field. Doane Lydecker, Doug Smith and Buck Stevens each scored two goals in that game, and Dick Mears, Frank Birdsall, Mike Shannon, Hugh Scott and Bill Heaton each added one.

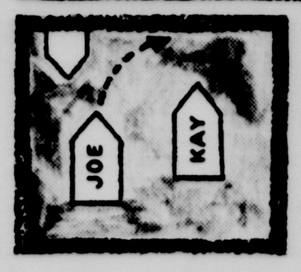
Great!

That's what you'll say when you light up a Half and Half. It tastes rich...and so mild, too. Pipe tobacco does it.

How Kay O'Grady defended herself when Joe Neylon made a pass:



It was easy. Kay's a defensive driver, so naturally when Joe wanted to pass her, she helped him. She checked the road ahead for oncoming cars, and since she saw one, she slowed down to let Joe in line in front of her. She not only saved Joe—but defended herself from a multi-car crash. Are you a defensive driver?

Give Worst Enemy Glass Of Water, But Always Wait For A Drowning

It's polite to give your worst enemy a glass of water—especially if he happens to be drowning at the time.

Opening lead — ♡ 3

If East is a rude type he switches to a diamond, and South makes the contract.

BAD BREAK

So South leads a spade to dummy's ace and returns a trump to take the proven finesse with the nine of clubs.

BETTER SWITCH

Not so fast, Go back to the beginning and see what East can do if he wants to be polite after he has taken his two heart tricks.

IN DUMMY

Declarer is in the dummy for the first and last time with a spade, and he cannot make good use of this entry. Even if he suspects the bad trump break he cannot yet take a trump finesse.

He can only lead out his top trump break and takes a little bow.

DAILY QUESTION

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention.

Just like the response of two clubs to the bid of one notrump, this asks partner to show a major suit if he can.

If partner bids hearts, you will jump to six hearts.

If he bids three diamonds, showing no major suit of four cards or more, you will jump to six notrump.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, April 19, the 109th day of 1966 with 256 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase; the morning star is Venus; the evening star is Jupiter.

Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, was born on this day in 1912.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the American Revolution began.

In 1933, the United States abandoned the gold standard.

In 1951, Gen. Douglas MacArthur made his much quoted comment that "Old soldiers never die; they just fade away." He was closing his military career by addressing a joint session of Congress after being recalled from Korea by President Harry S. Truman.

A thought for the day—British writer Somerset Maugham said: "It is not true that suffering ennobles the character; happiness does that some times; but suffering, for the most part, makes men petty and vindictive."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

Profit-Taking Slump Reversed Near Close

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market weathered a further decline today and closed with a small gain. Trading was active.

Profit taking on many of the coppers, airline, aerospace and electronic shares made it a down market most of the day.

Selective improvement cut losses in the afternoon, however, and in due course led to a reversal of the trend.

Volume for the day was estimated at 8.5 million shares compared with 9.16 million Monday.

Pan American World Airways (ex dividend) was down about 2. Eastern Airlines dropped around 1½. United Air Lines almost 3.

Polaroid tacked on a 3-point gain. Lorillard rose more than 1, Du Pont gained nearly a point. Ford added 1. Bethlehem, Jones & Laughlin and Republic Steel gained fractions.

Zenith was off 2. IBM was down a point after showing a 3-point gain.

Calumet & Hecla sank more than 2, Roan Selection Trust a fraction.

American Export-Isbrandtsen gained 3, SCM nearly 3, Collins Radio, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Commercial Solvents about 2 each. Off about 2 were Pepsi-Cola, Texas Instruments and Copper Range.

Marin Banking Reports Uptrend

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported unadjusted bank debits of $165,554,000, compared with $158,644,000 in March a year ago. Unadjusted deposits were $78,943,000, compared with $75,020,000 for the same month in 1965.

Debits, deposits and turnover ratios adjusted for regular seasonal changes are not yet available for Marin, as figures have not been reported for a long enough period to compensate for these changes.

France is building a 2,460-foot dam to harness the tides of the Rance River estuary. The tides, which average 28 feet of rise and fall, will produce enough electricity for 125,000 French homes by 1967.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

It's Engineering Field Services; Scandinavian Designs Moves

New name for the long established engineering firm Oglesby, Jacobs and Wickham, San Rafael is Engineering Field Services.

John C. Oglesby has bowed out of the engineering field and the firm is now headed by George P. Colson who comes here from Southern California. He has had 30 years experience in surveying and engineering (12 years in the Middle and Far East.) The office continues at 1414 Fourth Street and most of the company's field notes and maps dating back to the 1850s are still retained. A branch office is maintained in Sonoma.

Services are as before: Subdivision and land planning, complete surveys, including boundaries, construction and aerial mapping. Electronic measurement devices and calculation services are used.

NEW QUARTERS have been occupied by Scandinavian Designs at 921 C Street, San Rafael—moved from the corner of Fourth and C Streets. This is where Van-Doyle Furnishings used to be and just a few doors around the corner from the previous store.

It gives Erling Eide twice as much main floor space as before and a chance to move some of his furniture out of the basement for display. There will be a grand opening of the new store Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Coder

A NATIONAL contracting firm, Allied Builders System, specializing in constructing room additions and remodeling kitchens and baths, has opened offices at 2050 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

In charge is Kenneth S. Coder, who has returned to Marin County after an absence of eight years. Prior to joining Allied Builders he was coordinator of college recruitment for Tidewater Oil Co. For a number of years he was administrator of rehabilitation for the physically handicapped for Los Angeles and San Francisco Counties, with on-the-job training programs and placement.

A-1 AUTO PARTS on Miller Avenue, Mill Valley has been purchased from R. N. Ward by John J. Wolfersperger of Paradise Cove. He was in the automobile parts business several years ago in Missouri. Recently he has been with Levi Strauss and Co.

NEW NAME of the former Kerns Bros. Shell Service Station at Third and Irwin streets, San Rafael is Gilmore's Shell Service.

Edward Gilmore, who has had Gilmore's Richfield Service on Tamalpais Avenue, Corte Madera for about 10 years, purchased from William and Terry Kerns.

ANOTHER STATION change is Frank J. Linneman Texaco Service, 49 Medway Road, San Rafael to Partridge Texaco Service.

Forrest E. Partridge of Tiburon is the new owner. Linneman has the Frank Linneman Union Service Center in Novato.

ONCE IT WAS BOATS. Now it's organs that occupy the spare moments of commercial photographer Ken Molino, who celebrated his seventh year in business last week by moving into enlarged and remodeled quarters at 128 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

So devoted to organ music is Molino (he's president of a Marin organ club) that he maintains a spare Baldwin spinet in his studio office as well as a larger console at home. "It eases those one-100ths of a second tensions that build up during the day," he claims. Perhaps —or else he's contemplating expanding from commercial photography to portraiture, with sound effects to set the mood.

Weyerhaeuser Plans Plant In Modesto

TACOMA—Weyerhaeuser Co. plans to construct a new 155,000 square foot shipping container plant in Modesto this year, Norton Clapp, board chairman, has reported.

Construction is expected to start in July. The new plant will have approximately 125 employees h said.

New Products Force Others Off Of Shelves

NEW YORK (AP) —Americans' insatiable appetites for new products —and their reluctance to part with old favorites — are creating problems for the nation's supermarkets.

Another 4,000 to 5,000 are offered to the stores each year, of which they take about 1,000.

"With new items coming out all of the time, you have to knock out some items or squeeze the shelf space on existing ones," said William A. Schroeder, vice president, consumer marketing, Corn Products Co.

That is why from time to time a rinse, a 16-ounce bottle of root beer or a breakfast cereal will disappear from the shelves.

Consumer loyalty is high, and both the stores and the manufacturers are worried that the housewife will switch to a competitor.

"We try to take care of her as long as we can," Schroeder said.

The company estimates that it may take 10 years to get housewives to switch from its old starch to its new spray.

The government has estimated that three-fourths of Americans working in 1975 will be dealing with products that don't even exist today.

Campbell Soup Co. products have multiplied from 44 to more than 400 since 1954. General Foods Corp. introduced 17 new products in 1965, and General Mills, Inc., had 10. Green Giant Co. brought out 30.

Gordon Ellis, executive vice president, Pet Milk Co., estimates about 95 per cent of new products and brands introduced either are unsuccessful or fall far short of expectations.

Ellis said 65 years ago, the life expectancy of a new product was at least 20 years. Now, with increased competition, it is less than seven years in the food industry, and still dropping.

More of the proposed products are being weeded out along the line —in early stages of exploration, screening, business analysis, development or testing.
